POW Exploitation Reported

SAIGON (AP) — A defector fromNorth Vietnam said today that Hanoi subjects American prisoners of war to "brutal interrogation" and exploits them intensively for strategic and propaganda purposes.

Dr. Dang Tan, a former Communist party official in the North, said the Communists "usually put the prisoners on parade through the streets of Hanoi and other cities."

Tan, who came to South Vietnam four years ago and defected 20 months ago, said in a prepared statement read to a news conference:

"American POWs are subjected to all brutal interrogation methods which the North Vietnamese skillfully employ to extract information from them. This includes brainwashing and political indoctrination. It is the objective of the Central Committee policies to win over the minds of the American POWs.

"The Central Committee of North Vietnam considers that American POWs must be intensively exploited, both for strategic, intelligence and for propaganda purposes. The Ministry of Public Security and the Ministry of National Defense of North Vietnam compete with each other for the exploitation of the American POWs. North Vietnam blatantly violates the International Geneva Convention of 1949 for the humane treatment of POWs by permitting other Communist bloc countries, including the Soviet Union,Communist China, Cuba and others, to exploit the American POWs. This includes trying to take advantage of the families and friends of these POWS in the United States."

Tan said Hanoi will not release all of the American prisoners "now or in the future" because "the Communists believe the POWs are very competent and will be useful to them in the future. They are trying to use their talents now ... Those POWs will not have a chance to go home."

Tan, a slight, bespectacled man of 42, defected in late September 1969 in Pleiku Province in South Vietnam's central highlands. He said he joined the Communist party in 1948 and, after holding a series of administrative posts in North Vietnam, he was sent to South Vietnam in 1967. He siad he set up a hospital in the central highlands "where for two years I treated the wounded and trained medical cadres in the face of bombings and hardships."

In an interview earlier with Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen, Tan claimed that Soviet, Chinese, Cuban, North Korean and French "military strategists" were advising the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces fighting in South Vietnam.

He said he saw these foreign advisers at rest stations on the Ho Chi Minh trail when he traveled south in 1967 and in the next two years in Pleiku he saw "four or five groups of foreign military strategists, each numbering three to five men."

The French were soldiers who had been captured in the 1946-54 Indochina war, he said.

Explosion

SPARKS FROM a cutting torch being used by Woodrow Glass (above) of Sikeston touched off a fire late Monday afternoon in the back of One Hour Cleaners at 112 South Scott Street. Fire Chief Dolph Webb said the torch apparently caused a car's gasoline tank to explode. Glass was working beneath the car when the explosion occurred. He had minor injuries. Two tires on the car were destroyed. Firemen are shown at left battling the blaze to keep it from spreading to the cleaning shop, where minor smoke damage was reported to clothing.

Driver Beaten, Robbed

Joe Godwin

Joe Godwin of 406 Craven was beaten and robbed yesterday afternoon near the Big Oak Store in Mississippi county.

Godwin a delivery man for Hart's Bread, said this morning that while making his daily deliveries yesterday, he stopped by the side of the road near Dorena to rearrange his load of bread. Two men jumped Godwin, beat him and robbed him of a undetermined amount of money. Godwin then drove to Bennett's Store in Dorana for help.

Godwin was admitted to the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where he is being treated for possible concussion and broken ribs.

Postal Increase Sticks

Publishers Denied Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today denied a request by magazine and newspaper publishers to block temporary increases in postal rates, including a boost of two cents in the price of a stamp, scheduled to go into effect on Sunday.

Judge William B. Bryant denied a request for a preliminary injunction against the imposition of the higher rate that had been sought by the Magazine Publishers Association and the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The U.S. Postal Service has scheduled the rate increases averaging about one-third of present rates to take effect on Sunday.

Under the temporary increases, a regular stamp will go from six cents to eight cents; airmail stamps from 10 cents to 11 cents; post cards from five cents to six cents and second and third class rates will be increased by approximately 30 per cent.

The magazine and newspaper publishers and three other organizations representing mailers had contended that the temporary rate increase would be illegal since the Postal Rate Commission has not had time to consider the permanent rates sought by the Postal Service.

Car Fails to Yield

Malden Couple Killed

GIDEON--Two were killed and two others injured Monday in a two-car accident at Gideon at noon.

Dead are John J. Cook, 73, and his wife, Anna Emie, 78, of route two, Malden.

The fatalities occurred when a northbound 1966 Chevrolet, driven by Marjorie Gum, 51, of Clarkton, failed to yield the right of way, the highway patrol said, at the intersection of Gideon street and highway 162 and struck an eastbound 1957 Chevrolet driven by Cook.

Mrs. Gum and Jerry Gum, 25, of Clarkton, sustained minor injuries. Mrs. Gum was given a summons for failure to yield the right of way.

The bodies were taken to Boyd Funeral Home in Malden.

Non-Public Action Comes

Auxiliary Services Approved for Students

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House today passed, 88-63, a bill under which the state would provide auxiliary services for students at nonpublic schools.

Such shared time bills regularly have failed in the past decade in the Missouri Legislature.

Under the bill, public funds could be used to provide such things as crossing guard service, remedial reading, special training for the handicapped, audio visual aid, guidance counseling and so on for students of nonpublic schools as well as public schools.

A fiscal note attached to the bill predicted it would cost about $3.4 million a year to provide the extra services to all school children.

The arguments over the bill were in the same vein as they have been for the past 10 years.

Rep. Robert E. Young, RCarthage, said despite an opinion from Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth that the bill was constitutional he was opposed to providing any educational services to those who attended private or parochial schools.

But Rep. Thomas D. Graham, D-Jefferson City, provided the major argument on the other side.

He said "let's forget our religious differences and think of the children of the state. We ought to vote for this bill and forget our petty differences.

Earlier this session, the House defeated a bill that would have the state purchase secular services from nonpublic schools at an annual cost of about $29 million.

The House also passed, 84-53, a bill that would let business districts spruce themselves up and attract more business under a special benefit district proposal.

The districts could issue revenue bonds for such things as increased parking, malls, improved lighting and new streets.

The auxiliary services and special benefit district bills now go to the Senate.

Monday, the House killed two bills, one banning use of nonreturnable containers for beer and soft drinks and the other setting a presidential primary for the last Tuesday in February of presidential years.

There was no discussion as the House pounced on the presidential primary bill. It was defeated on a voice vote.

The container bill, designed to reduce the growing litter problem, was defeated 60-90 after lengthy argument. Opponents called it ridiculous and said it might even force the closing of all drive-in restaurants where beverages are served in throwaway paper cups.

Rep. Stan Thomas, D-Liberty, said he introduced the bill because the cost of cleaning up litter along roadways in the United States now adds up to $33 million a year.

The House advanced a bill setting a minimum wage of $1.60 an hour the first year, $1.80 an hour the second year and $2 the third. The measure exempts agricultural or domestic labor, handicapped persons or young people working parttime or during the summer months.

There have been many minimum wage laws proposed in Missouri but none has ever cleared both houses of the legislature. Two years ago the House passed one but it died in the Senate.

Man Charged In Filling Station Holdup

Melvin Daniel Smith, 20, of Cape Girardeau has been charged with armed robbery in connection with the early Sunday morning holdup of Hart's Standard Station in Miner, Sheriff John Dennis reports.

The station was robbed of $195 early Sunday morning, but Cape Girardeau police would not say if the money had been recovered.

Smith was being held in the Cape Girardeau city jail on charges of leaving the scene of an accident and investigation of armed robbery when the the robbery charge was filed for the Hart Service Station holdup. It was reported that Smith is charged with the Saturday night robbery of Thoni's Service Station in Cape Girardeau. More than $40 was taken.

Smith has been in custody since 6:30 p.m. Sunday when he was apprehended by Cape Girardeau police.

$200 and Six Months

Sikeston Woman Jailed

Bernice Lane of 307 Alabama was fined $200 this morning and sentenced to six months in jail on two charges of driving without an operator's license and driving while intoxicated.

Magistrate Judge Lloyd G. Briggs said that the first charge of driving with no operator's license was more an "aggrevation" than an offense. Mrs. Lane has been charged with the same offense in 1969.

"The second charge of driving while intoxicated not only endangers your life, but the lives of others on the highways," Briggs said.

The woman asked for probation on the jail sentence, but following a report from Assistant Prosecutor John Wilson saying the woman tested at .22 per cent alcoholic content at the time of her arrest, the judge said the woman was "absolutely drunk and stood committed."

She was turned over to Scott County Sheriff John Dennis for transferal to the county jail in Benton.

Jack E. Clemens of Sikeston acted as his own attorney this morning on trial for failure to register his automobile.

Clemens claimed his residency was in Michigan but Briggs convicted him and fined him $75. The judge then stayed $50 pending disposition of the case.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled June 1 into a bad check charge against Leroy Elfrank of 244 Kinder.

After entering a plea of innocent April 27 to a charge of assault, Faddie Bonner of Sikeston this morning changed his plea to guilty and was sentenced to 30 days in jail. The jail time was stayed and Bonner was placed on six months probation.

Winfred Beaird of 2009 Kentucky was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail on an assault charge. the sentence was stayed on condition that Beaird not repeat the offense.

A warrant was issued for C. Allen Broyles of New Madrid when he failed to appear in court. Broyles is charged with writing a bad check.

Bad check charges against David Ferguson of 133 North Ranney and George Pittman of Sikeston were continued until next Tuesday.

A charge of stealing against Gary Chism of 501 South New Madrid, was continued until next week. A preliminary hearing will be held then.

Charges of operating a vehicle with an out-of-state license against Cornell Cassell of Charleston were dismissed.

Dicey Johnson of 1003 North Ranney entered a written plea of guilty on a charge of careless driving and was fined $15.

Vote Today On Successor To Orton

CARUTHERSVILLE — (AP) — Voters in Pemiscot County go to the polls today to elect a successor to Clyde Orton, who was ousted as sheriff by the Missouri Supreme Court last month for oppression in office and neglect of duty in connection with gambling and liquor law violations.

Among several candidates in the running is Mrs. Hazel Orton, wife of the ex-sheriff. She is considered a favorite because of her husband's strength in past elections.

Orton, a Democrat, filed as a candidate in the special election but the court ordered his name kept off the ballot. He has complained that this action was politically motivated. The case was prosecuted by the office of state Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, a Republican.

Other candidates are Thad Shelly, who was appointed interim sheriff; former deputies Charles A. Farris, Neely Mitchell and Richard Pankey; Bill White, Gail Davidson and Clyde Manley.

Tempers Flash in Senate

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Tensions and tempers flashed as the Missouri Senate began the week in a debating mood Monday.

Three bills were perfected after a long-winded clashing session.

One, which could give Missouri students $840 in state aid for higher education was the victim of numerous amendments and emotional debate lasting more than three hours.

At one point, visitors were hustled out of the gallery and the press ousted from the chamber as the Senate went into executive session to calm members in private.

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, said Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, should resign or be ousted if he failed to tell the committee the state Commission on Higher Education opposed the bill.

Howard denied the charge. He said he was shocked by such accusations and thought the Senate had sunk to a new low in subterfuge and deceit. That was when the executive session was called. Howard reportedly was repremanded.

Nixon Says Nix

Personal Fight Against Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon took personal command today of the fight to wipe out cancer, backed by a proposed extra $100 million in federal funds.

Proposed legislation for the war against the disease is awaiting House action, with the additional money included.

Predicting that Congress will move the program along quickly, Nixon said in a statement that "the time has now come for us to put our money where our hopes are ... Our Capacity for efficient management was instrumental in our efforts to split the atom and travel to the moon. Now we need to apply those same capacities to the conquest of cancer."

A special new agency would be set up within the National Institute of Health, to be designated as a Cancer-Cure Program where it could take advantage of all wide-ranging research now going on.

The President said the agency would have an independent budget and be directly responsible to him.

The President told the white House press corps there have been some significant breakthroughs that make it possible to look forward to a cancer cure and added:

"It will not fail for the lack of funds. It will not fail for the lack of organization. It will call on all the resources of NIH, and it will not suffer from a lack of presidential interest."

STRAIGHT TALK
FOR AMERICANS

Tom Anderson reminds us that there are "27,931 ways" of making a living in America without getting on welfare. Yet welfare is growing 18 times faster than our population. In addition to the 63 million drawing social security and veterans benefits, 11 million Americans are on public assistance, while ten million more receive free doctors' services under Medicare.

Mr. Anderson quotes one campus radical saying to another: "But what happens to our unemployment checks when we over throw the government?" Perhaps no one has told him that in Communist countries everyone who is able to work must do so unless he wants to starve to death. The government is not only living beyond its income, remarks Anderson, "It is living beyond yours and mine." He compares it to a hungry snake that keeps on swallowing more and more of its tail "until there is no tail — and no snake."

The welfare state causes more problems than it cures.

One of the more popular is about the man who went to a supermarket to do the family marketing for the week and was asked by the bag boy whether he wanted a shopping cart. 'No thanks', he answered. 'I won't need one. I've only got a twenty on me.' "

CARE'S 25TH ANNIVERSARY

At the close of the Second World War, Americans with relatives and friends in Europe found it difficult or impossible to send them the food and supplies they so desperately needed. Overseas transportation was disrupted and mail deliveries undependable. To fill the need for a reliable channel for person-to-person aid, a private, non-profit agency named CARE was established in November, 1945, in Washington, D. C. The next spring, President Truman donated $1,500 to the new operation -- and on May 11, 1946, the first CARE package of food was delivered in LeHavre, France. Since then, the phrase "send a CARE package" has become a part of theAmerican idiom, and the organization has expanded its aid and services to include 35 countries in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East. The only remaining CARE Mission in Europe is one in Greece.

To commemorate its 25th anniversary, CARE is holding a World Conference in Washington. The conference started Monday, May 10, with a special dinner today to mark the sending of the first package. Mrs. Richard M. Nixon is serving as honorary chairman of the 25th Anniversary Committee. Anniversary celebrations will also be held throughout the United States and Canada and in many of the countries on the receiving end. The Dominican Republic,Guatemala and Panama have announced they are issuing commemorative stamps for the occasion.

The well-known CARE ads, with pictures of gaunt, waif-like children and appeals such as "Half the world is hungry - will you help?," are printed free of charge by many magazines. The ads tell prospective contributors they may specify which CARE program they would like to support -- Food Crusade, Self-Help or the MEDICO service. The food program includes food for children and pregnant women, agricultural supplies and nutritional training. CARE estimates it will help feed 25 million people in 1971, about 94 per cent of them children. Funds for the Self-Help program go to such projects as school construction, family planning assistance and training in farming methods. MEDICO, incorporated into the agency in 1962, provides doctors and other health professionals to staff medical centers in some countries.

Anthropologist Margaret Mead didn't look the part when she blew into Dallas bursting with ideas about sex and pot, but she sounded like a sexpot. She was the star of an SMU symposium on Sex, Science and Woman's Role. After a day of Mead, Dallas was a wrung-out but entertained city. She held forth again on marijuana, espousing the theory that she merely wants to stop addict transference from marijauna to heroin by doing away with marijauna laws. Having barely digested that, Dallas heard her say she's looking forward to a drop in the number of family units so that people will become parents because they want to. As for all those single people who will be left out of marital bliss, well, society will just have to allow the unmarried "some kind of human companionship because everybody from 16 to 90 isn't going to have to be married." Was Dr. Mead suggesting the Woman's Role in American life be that of a doped-up sex fiend? No one knew, because she posed more questions than she answered.

WONDER IF THE NONADVERTISERS ever thank the regular advertisers in a newspaper for bringing people town who come to the special events others have advertised but may also spend some money with the merchants who made no effort to get business? Charles Schwab had a mill manager whose men weren't producing their quota of work.

"How is it," Schwab asked, "that a man as capable as you can't make this mill turn out what it should?"

"I don't know," the man replied, "I've coaxed the men; I've pushed them; I've sworn and cussed; I've threatened them with damnation and being fired. But nothing works. They just won't produce."

It happened to be the end of the day, just before the night shift came on.

"Give me a piece of chalk," Schwab said. Then, turning to the nearest man: "How many heats did your shift make today?"

"Six."

Without another word Schwab chalked a big figure six on the floor, and walked away.

When the night shift came in, they saw the "6" and asked what it meant. "The big boss was in here today," the day men said. "He asked us how many heats we made, and we told him six. He chalked it down on the floor."

The next morning Schwab walked through the mill again. The night shift had rubbed out "6," and replaced it with a big "7."

When the day shift reported for work the next morning they saw a big "7" chalked on the floor. So the night shift thought they were better than the day shift, did they? Well, they would show the night shift a thing or two. They pitched in with enthusiasm and when they quit that night, they left behind them an enormous, swaggering "10."

Shortly the mill, which had been lagging way behind in production, was turning out more work than any other mill in the plant.

"The way to get things done," said Schwab, "is to stimulate competition. I do not mean in a sordid, money-getting way, but in the desire to excel."

THE BRITISH CENSUS

An anti-census campaign in Britain has begun with the burning of forms at mass rallies. Both the National Council for Civil Liberties and the militant Young Liberals escalated their opposition to the full census conducted in England on Sunday, April 25. "Information is political power," says Tony Smythe, an official of the Civil Liberties group who has been going up and down the country trying to persuade law-abiding Britons not to fill in their forms. The Young Liberals plan to go so far as to sabotage collection by impersonating census enumerators. Although the first census in America was conducted by the colony of Virginia in 1624, nationwide British censuses did not begin until 1801. Since that time they have continued without incident every 10 years with the exception of 1941. The present census is the most extensive yet undertaken in the United Kingdom and its questions are the most far-reaching. It is twice as long as the 1961 form and, in most respects, similar to the American census. Where the last census merely asked people where they were born, the present one asks immigrants the date of their entry into Britain and the nationalities of their parents.

The National Council for Civil Liberties points out that the data provided from such questions could well provide fodder for racists. But the Young Liberals go one step farther in attacking the principle on which the census is based. Their members find the idea of detailed comptuerized records on every person in the United Kingdom "intolerable." But The Guardian thinks the protests exaggerated and argues (April 11) that people must ask themselves whether or not they want to improve the quality of the information on which the community can plan its future.

It is suggested that the 1971 census may be so thorough as to eliminate the need for further censuses. The data derived from this survey, when combined with that taken from the Public Records Office, should be sufficient to compute facts and figures for the British population in the future. Brian Milton, the Young Liberal program co-ordinator, told Editorial Research Reports in London: "This is our last chance to take non-violent action against the computerized Data Bank Society."

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The kind of cook that annoys me most is the kind that thinks you can improve the taste of anything by dumping a double handful of raisins in it at the last minute. There are some dishes—sauerkraut for one—which simply don't need raisins.

One of the best ways for a general to enjoy renown with posterity is to fight his winning battles only on sites that will look scenic on post cards later.

It's a curious fact about the average man's knowledge of medicine: for everyone that can help you stop a nosebleed, there are at least 20 who can give you a positive cure for hiccups—or tell you how to get rid of warts.

A bridegroom thinks it's cut for his bride to pad around the kitchen barefoot, but if she does it 30 years later he complains, "Do you have to be sloppy about everything you do?"

The hardest kind of boss to work for is the one who insists on looking you squarely in the eye when he calls you on the carpet and bawls you out. This is because you know he's enjoying himself. A boss who dislikes rebuking an employe usually keeps his eye on the ceiling or stares out the window until his distasteful chore is over.

Any liberated woman over 40 years or 140 pounds who seeks to prove her freedom by wearing hot pants may win her campaign—but she has lost the war.

Add pretty sights: Two small children trying to whip the rainy day doldrums by pressing their faces against a wet window pane to see which can make the flatter pug nose.

Few men who take guests to a restaurant luncheon or dinner have the courage to check the addition on the bill when it comes; if they did, they'd be amazed at how often they were being cheated, knowingly or unknowingly.

KEEP STATE HANDS
OFF FRINGE BENEFITS

The Missouri Senate has taken sensible action in putting aside other business to advance a bill that would remove employes' fringe benefits from the state's tax rolls. As desperately as Missouri needs new revenue, this is not the way to get it.

The Senate move — coupled with similar action in the House — was prompted by a recent ruling from the State Revenue Department that fringe benefits from employers to employes were subject to the state income tax. The Revenue Department regulation was based on an opinion by the Attorney General's office.

This would be a thoroughly inequitable tax, placing an unjust burden on employer and employe alike. Not even the federal government — which has its hand in virtually everything where tax dollars are to be had — taxes fringe benefits such as insurance premiums and pensions, profit - sharing and deferred - compensation plans.

Furthermore, the levy would be self - defeating. Deprived of tax - free fringe items, workers most certainly would try to make up the loss by seeking higher wages, thereby spurring inflation. Employers would be put in a further financial bind.

There is also the problem of administering the plan. Enforcement would be difficult and complicated, probably adding to the already high costs of running the Revenue Department.

And what business or industry would find Missouri an attractive location with this heavy tax weight hanging over them?

Legislation to prevent this tax gouge should be expedited by both chambers of the General Assembly.

TRAVESTY OF A NEWSPAPER

A U.S. Press Association article in the Kahoka, Mo., Gazette - Herald tells about a new newspaper called NewsMan. "It is unlike any other newspaper we have ever seen." It is published by a nonprofit agency, financed by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. A lead article suggests how to start "a community action newspaper." A cardinal rule for the publication of such a paper, according to NewsMan, is to give it away free. "If you give the newspaper away free, you'll have the advantages of: (1) a large readership; (2) you'll know that low income people will see it, and; (3) you probably won't need a license of any kind ..."

As the article concludes, "And there you have it -- the advice to let the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington, or one of its substations, pick up the tab for the 'community action newspaper' .... Giving the paper away will permit the poverty - fighters to whoop about circulation and make fevered pleas to Washington to please send more money." Also, as NewsMan points out, there are disadvantages to selling newspaper, same as selling anything else: "...you'll probably have to keep books and pay taxes ..." Moreover, "... if your paper isn't interesting every issue, you won't be able to sell enough copies ..."

It is doubtful if "a community action newspaper," like the foregoing, would be much of an asset to the community – nor would it provide much competition for a first - rate, tazpaying, business -operated newspaper, run by an editor unafraid to express his convictions.

NO NEED FOR
NEW DEPARTMENT

In line with previous published statements, the Appeal continues to contend that no new Pollution Board is needed in Missouri.

Creation of such a board and department would merely add more expense to our already top-heavy operational costs of our state government.

Since pollution is a matter of health, the sensible move seems to us to be to charge enforcement of pollution statutes to the State Board of Health, then give that department the money with which to operate.

It would probably be just as efficient, possibly more so than a board which might easily include members who are involved in operations that created some of our pollution. It would also save considerable money in overhead and staff salaries and costs.

H.L. Hunt Says

DRUGS ARE DANGEROUS
A legislative committee studying the drug abuse problem in Viet Nam reported recently that approximately 60 per cent of U.S. servicemen there have used blackmarket narcotics. If the estimate of the group is correct, we face as dangerous a situation on the drug front in Indo-China as we do on the battle front.

The investigation showed that the bulk of the offenses involved marijuana, but this is not to be taken lightly for marijuana is dangerous itself. It has an hallucinating effect and while there is no concrete medical evidence that its use permanently disturbs the mind, experts in the field of law enforcement say that users frequently graduate to more dangerous drugs.

Director William Frazier of the Dallas police department's vice-control section says the pattern that he and his detectives have found in their investigations is one of gradual evolution from marijuana and barbiturate use to heroin.

"And heroin, it should be rememberd, is the most deadly of drugs," Director Frazier said. "There are very few cases that we have come across where a heroin addict is permanently cured." He warns that drug arrests are on the increase but those figures that are released monthly by police can be as dangerous as an iceberg.

"I would guess that for every one person we arrest there are seven to ten others that we don't catch or don't even know about," he said.

If this sounds frightening, it is meant to be. Law enforcement agencies with limited manpower can do just so much. It is up to the citizenry to give them help and provide mass education that will slow down and eventually crush the menace of illegal narcotics. HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Ante in Billions
Insiders See No Way to
Prevent Recession-Making
Steel Strike

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK: — It follows, as Richard Burton does Elizabeth Taylor, that every recent president has been convinced that it is the wage spiral which pushes up prices. And therefore the White House must push down down on wage demands which brings a counterpush from labor's legions.

And therefore insiders believe there will be a depressing steel strike this summer or fall.

From personal conversations, and from intimate presidential records, there is proof positive that Dwight Eisenhower, Jack Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson and now Richard Nixon have personally, or through their vice presidents or special emissaries, secretly urged the United Steelworkers union to go easy on their demands. Often they have. And there hasn't been a strike for 12 years. But this time steel union chief I. W. (Abe) Abel is not budging. He can't control the restless rank and file and the militants among the union's 600 local presidents.

What they want takes lots of arithmetic -- and it adds up to lots of money. The demand is for the "can settlement." Meaning a $1.10-an-hour wage boost. Meaning $1.2 billion in increases during the third year of the new contract. The figure is high because the basic steel negotiations will cover 544,866 workers (as of Feb. 8).

Yet in 1970, the entire steel industry -- according to its own statistics – made only $511 million. Thus the steel union's rank and file are pushing for twice as much in wages and benefits as the entire industry makes in a year. Of course, if the industry pays out a dollar in wages it has a tax deduction of about half that. So, in effect, the accountants say, it will just about break even on basic production if the union gets what it wants.

But the pencil-pushers forget that there are lots of white collar employes in the steel industry – who will get what the hourly rated men in the mills win. So however you slice it, the industry will either have to shut down facilities or operate at a loss -- unless it raises prices substantially.

It it does, the cost of everything else will blow up. So will President Nixon's anti-inflation economic game plan.

So will the legions of jobless as hundreds of thousands of fighting men return from Vietnam and war production oozes out into a swampy economy while the nation reconverts to peace.

That will take time. But Rome wasn't built in a day -- and they're still remaking the old inner city. It will take time to rebuild our ghettos despite the passionate belief in academic and way-out political circles that the moment this nations stops making ammo, stops dispatching war material-laden freighters, stops bombing the Viet Cong, it will pitch into instant remake of inner cities.

So there is a weird parallel with the 1959 strike crisis. Then as now, there was simultaneous rising of unemployment, prices, wages and inflation. Then, as now, the nation was on the eve of a presidential election year. Then, as now, the White House account executive in charge of first heading off a steel strike and then settling it was Richard Nixon. Then, as insiders now expect, there was a long steel strike and a recession.

So the stakes are great -- for the public and the President. But there appears no way to head off the strike and the recession unless the rank and file cools it. And there's little evidence of lower temperatures --or tempers.

In fact, the Aluminum Industry Council of the United Steelworkers of America (AFL-CIO) now is trying to top its union counterpart which recently negotiated a settlement with the can industry. The aluminum workers want an increase of about $1.40 an hour, a 54 per cent pension increase, a cost-of-living escalator clause for all three years, and lots and lots of what are strangely enough called fringe benefits. It's a mysterious phrase to the public so I list some of them here.

Such benefits run anywhere from insisting that there be pure air and an end to all pollution -- but, says the union, "our members should be protected against loss of earnings when plants or departments are required to shut down because of pollution levels."

Or they want "broadened mental health coverage, the establishment of a more comprehensive and more easily utilized paid prescription drug program and coverage for dental care and prescription eye glasses."

Or, "the continuation of health and life insurance coverage at employer cost during strikes and the pendency of discharge proceedings."

Or " a shorter work week without a reduction in pay" as "the answer to many of the economic problems of our two nations (including Canada)."

Or they want "dramatically" increased pensions and cost of living adjustments for those already on pensions.

They want and want. And if their leaders loudly, fervently, and frequently pledge all this to them and infinitely more, they begin to take the rhetoric seriously. And so strike steam builds up.

The official opening of this crises is set for May 19 when the leaders of both sides confer formally in Washington on these billion-dollar demands. The next moment of consequence comes when the contract expires August 1. Then the headlines will scream. And this one battle the public will lose. Eventually the wages will go up. So will prices.. So will inflation. No force appears able to prevent it. Why?

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — That tireless guardian of the nation's morals, J. Edgar Hoover, has collected more than $250,000 in royalties from three books researched and ghostwritten for him by FBI agents on government time.

This is an offense, if it had been committed by some other government official, that the FBI might have been asked to investigate. For the money rightfully should have gone to the taxpayers, who paid the salaries of the FBI researchers and writers.

In defense of Hoover, friends say he turned over the proceeds to his favorite charities. They cited the J. Edgar Hoover Foundation, whose records we immediately inspected. No royalty payments nor cash donations were listed from the FBI chief.

We also determined that royalty checks were made out to Hoover personally, not to charities.

Of the three books, the biggest money maker was "Masters of Deceit," published in 1958 by Holt (not Holt, Rinehart and Winston), which sold almost 250,000 copies. Then it was bought up by Pocketbook, which sold two million paperback copies.

In 1964, Warner Brothers paid Hoover a reported $50,000 for the movie rights. although no movie was even made of the book. Insiders suggest the payment was intended to butter up the old bear so he would permit Warner Brothers to film the popular TV series, "The FBI."

TV RIGHTS

Again, the taxpayers, not Hoover, should have been paid for the TV rights to FBI stories. For the FBI, after all, is a government agency, not Hoover's private police.

The FBI chief's book, "Study of Communism" published by Holt in 1962, sold some 125,000 copies. And a paste-up collection of Hoover's sayings, published by Random House as a book entitled "On Communism," sold around 40,000 copies.

Insiders say the man who authored Hoover's best prose is Special Agent F. C. Stukenbroeker, a talented Ph.D., whose sinewy writing would have made him a fine author in his own right. Stukenbroeker gulped out an "of course I can't say thing about that," when we asked him how much of the three Hoover books he had written and whether he received a bonus for them.

The research for the three books, we also have learned, was done on government time by FBI employees. They drew heavily from the files of the Domestic Intelligence Division, an ex-FBI bigwig told us. The arrangements for the books and the TV series were also handled largely by FBI men on government time.

Footnote: We tried in vain to get a response from the embattled old G-man. A spokesman would say only, "No comment."

WASHINGTON WHIRL

Federal Infiltrators--Hundreds of federal agents, dressed in hippie garb, infiltrated the recent antiwar demonstrations in Washington. Most effective were the narcotics agents, who speak the language of the drug culture and wear their hair long and unkempt as a regular guise. They submitted handwritten reports, charging hawkers sold drugs instead of hot dogs to the crowds and sexual intercourse was a spectator sport. They reported that some of the LSD was diluted with strychnine, causing serious illnesses. One report quoted Rennie Davis, the demonstration leader, as planning to dress radical girls as tourists, provide them with cans of lighter fluid and have them set fires in governments buildings.

Nixon's News-- We have had access to President Nixon's private news digests for last week. We found an occasional personal comment from Pat Buchanan who prepares them. In one aside, he suggested that the Washington Post's coverage of the antiwar demonstrations indicated the paper was seeking a national award. And a Buchanan aide, reporting on a George Wallace TV appearance, noted that the performance was smooth but that Wallace spoke from the "gut." On the whole, however, we found the presidential news summaries carefully objective. Most stories were boiled down to the bare bones. but the total impact was comprenensive.

Heroin Smuggling— The Customs Bureau has ordered a thorough search of returning GIs and incoming parcels from Vietnam to curb the flow of super-grade Saigon heroin into this country. Insiders tell us, however, that some GIs send heroin home in first-class envelopes, which have been ironed so they will go through the mails without detection. Others dip their writing paper in a heroin water solution. After it dries, they write seemingly innocent letters which can be moistened and squeezed for heroin injections. Then the letters can be shredded and smoked in cigarettes or pipes.

Postal Nepotism--The Post Office has developed a new form of nepotism. When Assistant Postmaster General James Hargrove testified on Capitop Hill recently, he took along his brother Clyde as counsel. The Post Office told us, however, that Clyde Hargrove made little profit from the appearance: a token $1 fee.

Foreign Aid -- Pete Peterson, the President's international economics adviser, made a strong foreign aid appeal to GOP congressional leaders the other day behind closed White House doors. He described the economic and educational needs of underdeveloped countries. For instance, he told the leaders that only about 5 per cent of the population of underdeveloped countries ever reach high school.

Ann Landers

Pornography Tends To Make Sex Boring

Dear Ann Landers: "Stunned in Connecticut" would be really stunned if she knew how many community leaders, clergymen, high government officials and little old ladies in tennis shoes had pornographic collections. I am a typist who prepares the mailing envelopes for so-called erotic literature and art. We mail material all over the world -- and to some of the darndest places and most unlikely people. Naturally our mailings go out in plain envelopes. Everything is hush-hush and bat-blind.

My friends have the notion that I must get a whale of a wallop out of being in the middle of all this naughty stuff. Frankly, I am bored sick with it.

I believe an adult should be able to see anything he wants to see and no one should have the right to tell him what he can or cannot see. But there IS something out of kilter with all this free-and-easy, wide-open dissemination of garbage. The behavioral experts tell us that pornography does not incite people to commit sex crimes nor does it promote antisocial behavior. Yet I deplore the fact that, for the price of a theater ticket, people can now see live performances of the sex act at a number of places in the larger cities -- at high noon.

Will you comment, please? -- Clouded Vision.

Dear Vision: The best statement I have ever heard or read on this subject was made by Norman Cousins (Saturday Review). He wrote: "The danger is not that the exploitation of sex may arouse lust but that it could produce impotence. By detaching sex from love and annihilating privacy, sex is robbed of its delight. What is even worse, an infallible formula has been found for making sex boring. People who insist on seeing everything run the risk of feeling nothing."

Amen, Norman. Amen.

Dear Ann Landers: I am eleven years old and in the sixth grade. My sister is eight years old and very babyish. Almost every night she makes up some phony ailment and busts into my folks' bedroom and asks if she can sleep with them. My mother is an old softie and she always says yes.

I am afraid my little sister is ruining my parents sex life. Should I talk to her about it or should I talk to my mother? Rush your advice to the Newark News. This is a serious problem.---Berkeley Heights.

Dear Berk: It is considerate of you to be concerned about your parents' sex life but this is really not your department. Children should not be taken into their parents' bed at night because it sets up a pattern of dependency which is unhealthy for the child. I have said this in the column several times. I'm sorry your mother missed it.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend who is not exactly a liar but she has a way of exaggerating that drives me up the wall. I've been with her when certain incidents have occurred and then I have listened to her recount the story. The way she magnifies everything is shocking. Why do people do this? What does it mean?---Emma.

Dear Emma: Your friend probably exaggerates to make the story more interesting. But there's actually more to it. Small minds are like a microscope. They have the ability to magnify little things but they cannot see the big picture.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking And Petting -- What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Kansas City Royals and the St. Louis Cardinals both came up with big innings and victories Monday night.

The Royals, who recently ended a 23-game losing streak to Baltimore, turned on the world champions for the third time this season. The score was 4-1.

St. Louis outscored the Montreal Expos 8-5.

Amos Otis and Bruce Dal Canton proved too much for the Orioles at Baltimore. Otis, after knocking in the Royals' first run in the fifth, climaxed a surge in the seventh by smashing a three-run home run, his fifth.

Otis got the homer, two singles and a double in four times at bat. Dal Canton, notching his third straight victory, scattered five hits. He is now 3-1.

It was the second time this season Kansas City has beaten Baltimore ace Dave McNally, whose record is 5-2.

St. Louis used two basesloaded walks, pitcher Jerry Reuss' two-run double and Lou Brock's single for five runs in the seventh inning to overcome the Expos at Montreal.

Joe Hague slammed two home runs for St. Louis. His first came in the second with nobody on base and the second in the sixth with one aboard. The score was tied 3-3 when the Cardinals broke loose loading the bases on two walks and a single with nobody out. Mike Marshall, relieving starter Steve Renko, 3-2, got two outs before yielding two basesloaded walks. Then Reuss and Brock came through.

Reuss won his fourth game against three defeats. He spaced eight hits and needed help in the ninth from Frank Linzy, who got the final out.

Kansas City will pitch Dick Drago, 4-1, tonight at Baltimore. The Orioles will counter with Pat Dodson, 2-2. St. Louis remains at Montreal and will send Reggie Cleveland, 2-2, against the Expos' Carl Morton, 3-4.

Dogs Club Charleston; Face Cape Today at VFW

When asked about this afternoon's showdown between Sikeston and Cape Girardeau Central in the district baseball tournament, Bulldog Coach N. P. McDaniel said he hoped his crew would put together a "good defense behind Don". The Don, Coach McDaniels referred to, is Don Miller, the Bulldogs' top pitcher, who will be on the mount in today's 4 p.m. clash at V.F.W. stadium.

Miller paced the Bulldogs through last year's state tournament playoffs, taking them into regional competition. The hard throwing right hander will be up against a Cape Central lineup that has wacked off 13 straight victories after an opening loss to Jackson in a 4-3 game.

Sikeston takes into today's game a 9-2 record, with losses coming from Chaffee (7-6),and an earlier loss to the Central crew in a 9-0 affair.

On the mound for the Bengals will be Mark Hogan, a pitcher, who blanked the SHS squad earlier this season, holding it to three hits in the April 14 contest.

At stake this afternoon is the district championship and a ticket to advance into the state tournament. It was only last year when these same two teams collided in the district battle. Sikeston took that contest and moved into the sectionals and into the regionals before bowing out to the eventual state champions from Lafayette.

Cape, the only Southeast Missouri school to claim a state baseball title, brings into Sikeston its 13-1 record, and a chance to avenge last year's district loss at Capaha Park. Cape has won the state title twice, last in 1962. For the Bulldogs, a state title came the closest in 1951 when Sikeston as runner-up to St. Louis Central.

Monday Afternoon the Bulldogs sharpened up their hopes for a victory today by blasting the Charleston Blue Jays, 12-1, in a conference clash played in Bertrand.

The Bulldogs blasted the Blue Jay pitching for 13 hits, four of which were doubles. Eighteen Bulldog batters saw action in the game that opened into an early 5-0 lead for Sikeston in the first inning.

Junior Mike Mitchell collected the victory from the mound of McDaniel's crew, and received late help in the sixth inning from Bob Blankenship. Mitchell had pitched the SHS squad to a 9-0 lead in his five innings of work, and Blankenship carried the squad the rest of the way to the 12-1 victory.

Shortstop John Vines and Center Fielder David Hackney paced the Bulldogs' 13 hit barrage with two safeties apiece. Vines, Bob Walker, Bo Ralph, and Paul Johnson each collected one of the team's four doubles.

Opening up the first inning, five Sikeston players circled the diamond off three straight opening walks, three fielders's choices, an error and two singles.

Charleston managed to chalk up a run in the sixth inning, as Blue Jay centerfielder Mitchell scored on Mark Chaney's double, one of the three Charleston hits in the game.

Junior DeLay suffered the defeat on the mound for the Charleston squad. Nine Blue Jay batters were retired through strike outs accumulated by Mitchell and Blankenship.

Sports Briefs

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Donald L. Gambril, 37, an assistant coach of the U.S. Olympic team in 1968, is the new head swimming coach at Harvard.

The university confirmed reports in naming Gambril Monday to succeed retiring Bill Brooks. Gambril has coached California State at Long Beach to a 48-3 dual meet record the past four seasons.

BOSTON (AP) — Northeastern Coach Joe Zabiliski says he has no problem with football players with long hair.

"If long hair does become a problem, we'll invite the players to the handball court and play them for the price of a haircut," Zabilski said Monday before launching spring practice.

Zabilski and members of his staff play handball regularly.

BOSTON (AP) — Tommy Conners, 132, of Boston and Benny Ramirez, 130, of New York fought to an eight-round draw in a featured boxing bout Monday night at the Arena.

A crowd of about 2,500 was attracted by the fights, which included closed-circuit telecasts of three heavyweight bouts in Toronto Oakland and Chicago.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Flint, Mich., Sports Center will be used for this year's training camp by the St. Louis Blues' National Hockey League club, the Blues announced Monday.

The team formerly trained in Ottawa, Ont., Canada.

The Blues' management said the Flint facility was chosen because it has two arenas. One seats 1,000 persons and will accommodate 500 standees. The second arena has seating for 4,002 and 900 standees.

Portageville Sets Pace In District 'M' Track

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Portageville, behind a 42-point team effort, took top team honors in the class M district track meet Saturday at Houck Stadium. Ste. Genevieve finished second with 38 points followed by Caruthersville with 35½.

Favored East Prairie, claimed four blue ribbons in the 15-team competition but wound up in fourth with a 29-point total.

East Prairie's Henry Franklin and Caruthersville's Chris Hoskins were both double winners in the district competition. Franklin paced the dash events, the 100 and 220-yeard runs, sweeping the dash honors. Hoskins collected both the shot and discus blue ribbons with his throws.

Only one record was set in the Saturday afternoon meet. That going to the East Prairie's 880-yard relay team. The Eagle's foursome set the new mark at a 1 minute, 32.9 seconds.

With the large number of schools competing in the district, the top four qualifiers in each event will make the trip to the state meet this weekend in Columbia.

Field events get underway in this weekend's state meet at 9:30 a.m. in both the M and S class competition. Preliminaries are scheduled to get under way at 10 a.m.

Class L schools compete in the district this weekend at Sikeston, with the top qualifiers making the trip to Columbia May 22.

Speed Unpredictable

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — In years past, drivers were well aware what speeds they and their opponents were capable of. Predictions of the speed needed to capture the pole position for the Indianapolis 500mile race were a dime a dozen.

Not so this year. With only four days remaining before the first weekend of qualifications, it is nearly impossible to find a driver who'll predict his own speed, let alone what speed will take the pole.

The reason for the disappearance of the traditional wholesale prophecies is 34-yearold Mark Donohue of Media, Pa. Nobody knows how fast this graduate engineer from Brown University can really go in his McLaren-Offenhauser.

Donohue continued to stun nearly everyone at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Monday as he turned in a 177.340-miles-per-hour lap, second only in the history of the Speedway to his own 177.901 a week ago.

He has consistently turned in lap speeds in excess of 176 miles per hour, something unheard of here until this May.

An unprecedented 11 drivers have joined the exclusive "170 Club," turning in at least one lap on the 2½-mile track averaging more than 170.

Peter Revson, 175.063; Bobby Unser, 175.0; Mario Andretti, 174.520; Al Unser, 174.4, and Mike Mosley, 174.4, have done the best behind Donohue. But the 2.9 miles per hour difference between Bobby Unser's best and Donohue's best looks nearly insurmountable.

Al Unser, the man who sat on the pole and won the 1970 race, sat in the grass near the pit wall Monday morning and shook his head.

"There's no way I'm going to make a prediction (on the speed it will take to win the pole). Not the way Mark's been running," Unser said.

Royals End Jinx

The Kansas City Royals have obviously said 23-skidoo to the Baltimore Orioles' jinx over them while the New York Mets caught up with Houston's Wade Blasingame just as he was about to count 10 and out.

After losing 23 straight games to the Orioles the last two years, Kansas City made it three out of four over Baltimore this season with a 4-1 victory Monday night behind the slugging of Amos Otis and Bruce Dal Canton's five-hit pitching.

The Mets had never beaten Blasingame and were in danger of dropping their 10th in a row to the Astros' left-hander until Bud Harrelson singled home two runs in the seventh inning for a 2-1 triumph.

Elsewhere on Monday's slim major league slate, San Francisco and Juan Marichal edged Cincinnati 3-2, Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs struck out 12 and became the National League's first six-game winner by blanking Philadelphia 3-0, St. Louis whipped Montreal 8-5 and Detroit downed California 5-2.

Dal Canton and loser Dave McNally were locked in a scoreless battle with two out in the fifth inning when the Royals took a 1-0 lead on singles by Freddie Patek, Cookie Rojas and Otis, who earlier singled and doubled. Otis then homered in the seventh following Jerry May's double and a walk.

Baltimore's only run came in the eighth and was unearned when left fielder Carl Taylor dropped a two-out fly ball with a runner on second.

Manager Bob Lemon diclosed that Otis did his heavy hitting on an upset stomach.

Blasingame had protected a 1-0 lead on singles by Bob Watson and Denis Menke and a double play grounder from the second inning until the seventh when Jerry Grote, who broke up a no-hit bid in the fifth, lashed a one-out double.

Don Hahn got an infield hit and took second on Tommie Agee's tap in front of the plate, with Grote holding third. Harrelson then drilled his decisive hit to center field.

Marichal, who recorded his 2,000th career strikeout, held the Reds to one hit until the sixth when Pete Rose singled and Tony Perez homered. By that time, however, the Giants had all their runs with Willie Mays, Ken Henderson and Tito Fuentes getting the RBIs.

Jenkins fired a four-hitter at the Phillies, retiring 17 consecutive batters between singles by Larry Bowa in the third and eighth. Billy Williams doubled off Chris Short in the sixth, took third on Jim Hickman's single and scored the only run Jenkins needed on Joe Pepitone's grounder. In the eighth, Glenn Beckert singled and Hickman homered.

The Cardinals, who filled the bases with none out in the seventh inning of a tie game, pushed across five runs after reliever Mike Marshall picked up two outs. Marshall then walked Ted Sizemore and Dick Schofield, pitcher Jerry Reuss belted a ground-rule double and Lou Brock singled the final run across.

Joe Hague drove in the first three St. Louis runs with a pair of homers.

The Tigers jumped in front of the Angels 2-0 in a weird first inning that consisted of a single, walk, two errors and two wild pitches.

Jim Northrup singled with two out and raced to third on Andy Messersmith's wild pickoff attempt. Norm Cash walked and took second while Northrup scored on a wild pitch. When catcher John Stephenson's throw to the plate hit Northrup and rolled away Cash continued to third, scoring, on another wild pitch.

Dick McAuliffe homered in the fifth and the Tigers got two more in the sixth, the last run coming on a wild pitch by Mel Queen. Roger Repoz homered for California's first run.

Gideon

BROSELEY -- Gideon put it all together in state district action Monday afternoon as they slammed, pitched, and fielded their way past Neelyville for the 3-0 baseball championship.

Gideon will play the winner of today's Cape Central - Sikeston contest in State District play at the V.F.W. park Friday for the sectional title.

Mark Littell went the distance for the victors, fanning 13 and allowing only one hit in the shutout contest. Home runs and extra base hits were instrumental in paving the way for the Bulldogs win. Mike Nolin smashed the first pitch he saw over the fence for the game's first run and safety.

Mike Nolin went two -for -four at the plate, driving in teammate Tommy Bell for the second run with his fifth inning double. Bell, Mike Nolin, and Bruce Coleman collected consecutive doubles in the one -run scoring fifth inning.

After opening the game with a round - tripper, Gideon kept its bats hot. Jim Huckeby added the second home run in the sixth inning for the final tally.

Mike Nolin, Coleman, and Huckeby collected six of the Gideon hits smashing two a-piece. Five of the seven safeties went for extra base hits.

John Tyler handled the mound chores for the Neelyville squad, while teammate Larry McKinley added the squad's lone hit, a single.

Sellouts Highlight Playoffs

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Stars are hurting on the court but not at the gate as the American Basketball Association championship playoffs against Kentucky returns to the Salt Palace.

Wednesday night's fifth game between the Stars and Colonels was sold out at 13,208 Monday, giving Utah a 77,147 total for six playoff games, including three against Indiana for the ABA Western Division title. That's an average of 12,858 per game.

Attendance for the first four games between Utah and Kentucky outdrew four-game Milwaukee-Baltimore National Basketball Association playoffs, 47,459 to 45,623. However, the Salt Palace and Louisville's Freedom Hall have larger seating capacities.

The best-of-seven Utah-Kentucky series is now down to the best-of-three as the Colonels won Friday night and Saturday in Louisville to knot the series at 2-2.

Utah coach Bill Sharman says any home-court advantage is needed Wednesday night to offset ailments of three key players — Zelmo Beaty, Merv Jackson and Red Robbins.

Robbins, who had averaged 18.7 points a game in the playoffs, came down with an upset stomach Friday and was still ailing Monday.

Beaty, who has played the ABA's scoring leader, Dan Issel, head-to-head, says he is suffering headaches that begin in the second half. The headaches have been occurring for several weeks, he says.

Beaty's primary problem in the last two games, however, was foul trouble. He was whistled for three before the half Saturday and fouled out before Utah pulled even at 119-119 in regulation play.

Kentucky won 129-125 in overtime on the secoring of Louie Dampier, who finished with 33.

Dampier had been held considerably under his 18-point average by Jackson, whose knee injury worsened after the series' opening game.

Jackson played only 15 minutes Friday night and 24 Saturday.

The teams return to Louisville next Saturday for a nationally televised sixth game. If necessary, the seventh game will be played in Utah May 18.

Before You Buy

By Margaret Dana

Do you agree that the government should not only require all automobiles to have built - in seat belts for passengers, but should also compel all passengers to use them? There is evidence that seat belts have protected or could have protected many people from injuries in car accidents. The question now being raised, however, is whether the government should require you to do something which has nothing to do with protecting others -- only yourself.

Now is the time when the thoughtful opinions of consumers should be heard and reckoned with, as a great national change is actually in prospect -- a change that abridges the individual's freedom of choice, not to protect the public but on the assumption the government has superior judgment in protecting YOU,the individual.

A rule, published in final form a few weeks ago, by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration states that on January 2, 1972, manufacturers of passenger cars will be required to provide one of three options for occupant protection. the three choices given car makers are these:

(1) A complete so- called "passive" protection system that would protect occupants from serious injury in a crash up to 30 miles per hour. The passive protection referred to would be the automatic "cushion" being experimented with quite successfully, or a similar device.

(2) A protection system, including lap belts, that must protect front - seat occupants in crashes that are called frontal barrier crashes, up to 30 miles per hour. This provision includes a seat= belt warning system that will ring a bell or a buzzer and flash bright lights until seat belts are fastened.

(3) A combination lap - and - shoulder belt system, with the same warning system of lights and sound that will not stop unless all belts are fastened.

The question being raised and needing the serious consideration of all people is whether this further emphasis on safety through compulsory restraints for passengers is the sound, sensible way to correct the growing traffic accident toll, or whether requiring better driver competency and responsibility, stiffer licensing, removal of drunk or arrogant drivers, and better road design for safety is not actually the only effective cure.

Where the safety of others is involved, a law that requires compliance with a safety provision makes sense. That is why laws require we drive on the right side of the road instead of where we please, and observe traffic lights whether we want to stop for them or not. And, obviously, good design for car safety and reliability engineering is a right consumers should demand. Poor design or quality control can endanger the safety of others -- not just the owner or driver of a car.

But as I study "Analysis and Summary of Accident Investigations," the annual report from the Federal Highway Administration of the U.S. Department of Transportation, I see over and over again the phrases, "...traveling too fast for road conditions; ... driver under influence of alcohol; ... driver asleep at the wheel; ... driver went into wrong lane," etc.

Neither improved car design and quality control nor mandatory use of seat belts and other passenger restraints can cure the problem created by the ignorant, the careless, the irresponsible or drunk drivers on the road. For many years the National Safety Council has struggled to cut down the burden of traffic accidents and damage. It feels the use of seat belts by everyone will do it.

There is no question that people should have the right to have and use seat belts if they wish. But by the compulsory installation of seat belts in cars the government has actually forced the 67 per cent of all Americans who do not use seat belts, to spend $250 million a year buying them anyway.

Your opinions are important on this, and will count, if you write at once to: Speed Control, Docket Section, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, Department of Transportation, Washington, D.C. 20590.

(Margaret Dana welcomes opinions and questions on buying and will use them in hercolumn as rapidly as research and space permit. Personal answers are impossible due to the large volume of mail from readers. Address: Margaret Dana, Research Center, R.D. 3, Doylestown, Pa. 18901.)

Youth's Vile Shouts Mar Church Service

CHAFFEE--Three Chaffee youths, described as younger than 17 years of age are being sought in the Sunday evening disturbance of peace at the Calvary Baptist Church.

It is reported the youngsters, all boys, opened the church door during services and shouted a string of four-letter words completely disrupting the services.

Police Officer Kenneth Henning joined the chase after the youths in company with men of the congregation.

Officer Henning said the group of men lost the boys after a chase west out Yoakum Avenue, through the school yard, behind the hospital, across the highway turning behind Smith's Service Station, behind Bryant's Machine Shop and into the junk cars parked behind Beck's Garage.

Henning added that there is evidence to indicate who the boys are and that he and Police Chief Raymond Rowell are working on the incident.

Henning said another incident of youths disregard for church property occurred when a large load of empty beer cans were dumped on the lawn of the First Baptist Church.

"One big difference between men and boys is the price of their toys."

Convicts to Study On Rolla Campus

ROLLA--For three years inmates of several Missouri penal institutions have been taking university courses while in prison. Now, under a new program to be started this fall by the University of Missouri-extension division, selected inmates will take courses on the UMR campus.

According to Dr. David Hentzel, who started UMR's prisoner education program, two grants totaling $134,908 from the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council (with funds coming from the U.S. Department of Justice) will allow UMR to expand its in-prison program and initiate the new on-campus program for prisoners.

This fall, UMR will cooperate with the State Department of Corrections, the Board of Probation and Parole and the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation in bringing about six carefully screened inmates to the campus for classes. Inmates, under the supervision of representatives of the State Department of Corrections, will live in a resident center in Rolla and will attend regular classes at UMR.

Dr. John Dahm, who will direct this program at UMR, says these selected inmates from the Missouri State Penitentiary for Men are those who have one to two years left to complete their sentence or to probable parole. They also have tested out well in examinations given by the UMR Counseling and Testing Center.

"Many of them have taken UMR courses taught at the prison and are on their way to earning degrees," Dr. Dahm says. According to Dr. Hentzel, this education release program is a pilot model for the State of Missouri. "Of the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance grant, $24,777 will go toward the support of the education release program," Dr. Hentzel says.

Under $110,131 of the funds, UMR will continue and expand its in-prison programs in Missouri. Credit courses will again be taught by UMR faculty at the Missouri State Penitentiary for Men in Jefferson City and at the Medium Security Prison in Moberly. Course offerings will be extended to the Algoa Intermediate Reformatory and the State Correctional Center for Women at Tipton. According to Dr. Hentzel, over 100 inmates are currently enrolled as UMR students this year. Among courses which have been presented are those in sociology, psychology, philosophy, American and ancient history, English composition, economics and wester civilization.

Dr. Hentzel started the program of teaching university courses to inmates at the Jefferson City institution in the fall of 1968. Through state and federal funding, the program has expanded rapidly, including academic and personal counseling, to become a total program of rehabilitation through education.

Unfair Labor Charges Aired

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A hearing on four complaints of unfair labor practices by an engineering firm and labor union engaged in construction at the Noranda Aluminum Co. plant south of New Madrid opened Wednesday.

Conducting the hearing in the bankruptcy courtroom of the Federal Building are repersentatives of the 14th District, National Labor Relations Board, St. Louis.

Involved is Kaiser Engineer, a division of Kaiser Industries Corp., and Local 908 of the Operative Plasterers' and Cement Masons' International Association of the United States and Canada, AFL-CIO.

Complainants are Howard Sterling of Cape Girardeau and Donald J. Rickus of Farmington. They allege discrimination by both the union and Kaiser Engineers, claiming the union forced the company to discriminate against them. Each complainant filed separate cases against the union and company but the suits were ordered consolidated by Joseph H. Solien, regional director for the 14th District of the NLRB.

Victor Witee of St. Louis is here as legal counsel for the labor relations board. W. A. Gilles is trial examiner.

THE FAMILY PARTY announcing a couple's engagement is one of many wedding traditions. Pictures of this important event are a vital part of their wedding album as well as a priceless addition to the family archives. The wise photographer watches for natural moments rather than relying entirely on posed groupings.

Photographs Priceless Wedding Gift

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — The traditional church wedding is only one of the choices on the 70's marriage scene. The trend is to match wedding style with life style -- and the trend applies to wedding photography, too.

"Individualism ... meaning ... intimacy" are the bywords of the new rites that can take place anytime, anywhere, from daybreak in a city park glen to midnight in the living room of a friend's home. To record the highlights of such a ceremony, one should always rely on a professional photographer. However, a friend or relative who brings his camera along can supplement his coverage and capture some of the less formal sidelights of the event.

As an amateur photgrapher, you have a priceless gift to give that special young couple planning to get married this summer. When you acknowledge their invitation, enclose a note indicating that you will be taking pictures for them throughout their day. Then, make plans to take the kind of pictures they would want.

Before the day of the wedding, stock up on a color-print film, such as Kodacolor-X, and magicubes or flashcubes. Check out your camera and batteries if it needs them. Also, find a snapshot album that suits the couple's taste and set it aside to be quickly filled with your prints when they come back from the photofinisher.

Warm up for wedding day by taking pictures at the shower, luncheon, bachelor party or even the rehearsal dinner. Indoors, keep your picture subjects within your camera's flash range -- about 4 to 9 feet for a Kodak Instamatic X-15 camera with magicube. Watch for candid picture opportunities in which people will look their natural best. An animated conversation makes a more interesting picture than a stiffly smiling lineup.

Eyeglasses and other shiny surfaces will not bounce your flash back at you if you remember this tip from experts at Kodak. Choose camera position so that subjects with eyeglasses are not looking straight at the camera -- so shiny surfaces are not parallel with the front of your camera. An angle of about 45 degrees will eliminate unwanted glare. Before you shoot, double-check everything in your picture area, especially background.

Your best photo plan for the wedding day might be summed up in one word, "people." By concentrating on taking pictures of the bride and groom, their relatives and friends, you will capture the essence of the occasion, whether it borders on the customary or the unusual. Look for details of expression and dress that color the festivities. Be sure to take pictures of men -- so often ignored in wedding pictures -- as well as women and children.

Whenever possible, move in as close as your camera and flash permit to take your picture. This eliminates unnecessary background detail and focuses attention on your immediate subject. Close-ups, like the new wedding rites themselves, feature impact and simplicity.

For medium shots within your camera's flash range, or outdoors, look for little ironies and contrasts to bring your photo to life. Include an object or person in the foreground of a snapshot to picture a contrasting situation, and enjoy a bonus of added dimension or depth.

If you purchase processing mailers with your film, send them off immediately after the wedding, so that the finished prints will arrive in plenty of time for you to arrange them in the album before the newlyweds return from their honeymoon.

When you send out or deliver your photo gift, why not inclue a few extra album pages for the newlyweds to fill with their own pictures of newly married life? If they already own a camera, include a cartridge of film and magicubes or flashcubes to get them started on their own picture-taking. And if they are cameraless -- even after all the wedding gifts have been logged in -- why not surprise them with an inexpensive, simple nonadjustable camera like the Kodak Instamatic 44 camera or Kodak Instamatic X-15 camera?

For one-stop shopping before the wedding, there is even a Kodak Smile Saver kit that includes the Kodak Instamatic X-15 camera, a cartridge of Kodacolor-X film, a sleeve of Sylvania blue dot magicubes, a camera pouch, wrist strap and -- a photo album.

Six from Area Among Trainees

JEFFERSON CITY--Six southeast Missouri men are among 40 recruits who began training Monday at the new Missouri State Highway Patrol Law Enforcement Academy in Jefferson City.

Area members of the first class of recruits to enter the modern training facility are Jon S. Daniel and Ronald E. King, both of Dexter; Wm. C. Clayton, Portageville; Alton E. Clark, Steele; John C. Norman, Senath, and Ronald L. Ryan, Poplar Bluff.

Col. E. I. Hockaday, patrol superintendent, said the recruits will receive 24 weeks of continuous academic training. Men who successfully complete the special police and college courses will be commissioned and assigned to various troop areas.

They will work under the supervision of experienced officers for two months before returning to the academy for one month of further classroom study, Colonel Hockaday said.

Britain's Entry in Common Market to Be Decided

LONDON — The chips are down. The British can no longer claim that they are waiting for Gen. de Gaulle to die and the French are no longer arguing that they must wait until the British become European. After a decade of negotiations and two vetos, Britain's entry into the Common Market will be decided this summer.

Britain considers itself as an applicant, not a supplicant. The Tories, as well as the Labor leaders, are not prepared to go in at any price. The chief British negotiator, Geoffrey Rippon, says that the talks in Brussels are no longer concerned with "matters of principle, but with matters of common sense." The issues now are Britain's contribution to the agricultural subsidy of The Six, the future of sterling as a reserve currency, sugar quotas for Britain's Commonwealth partners, special status for New Zealand's agricultural produce, and the future EEC budget.

Why does Britain want in? Because, as Prime Minister Edward Heath said in a major speech to Parliament, "Politically the challenge is to create a unity of action which will give our countries collectively that position in world affairs which individually is beyond our reach." And former Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who opened the current negotiations while still in office, said in Birmingham that Britain's entry was "an issue which could conceivably have more effect on our industrial prospects ... than any event since the end of World War II."

The French, surprisingly enough, also want Britain in. To be sure, reports the Economist, there are still some Gaullists who believe that it would be a victory for France to send Britain packing or who are convinced Britain would try to torpedo some of the achievements of the Six once in side the Common Market.

French President Georges Pompidou sees the EEC as a confederation of states. France rejects the idea of majority voting and insists on national governments retaining full control over the decisions of the community. This view is currently shared by Health. Most probably the French and British leaders will meet this summer to discuss the form that European monetary cooperation should take and to hammer out the future organization of European defense.

Popular opinion polls show that Frenchmen are more ready to welcom Britain into the Common Market than the British are to join it. A Eurovision poll revealed that 64 per cent of the French think the Common Market would benefit England while 59 per cent of the British consider it would be bad for the U.K.

The Tories are frankly concerned that the longer the negotiations drag on, the stronger the opposition willbecome. The anti-Market forces include Vic Feather, general secretary of the Trades Union Congress, who argues that entry would mean rising prices and growing unemployment, and Enoch Powell, the outspoken M. P. from Wolverhampton, who believes Britain would lose much of her sovereignty by joining. "I don't want to see this nation drowned in other nations," Powell says.

The Heath government fears that unless the principal issues are quickly settled in Brussels, the sourness of public opinion will turn into outright opposition. Although Heath would not suffer politically by calling off negotiations, ideologically he is committed to joining. For its part, the Labor Party plans to hold a special conference on the Common Market before givin a final parliamentary verdict. Whichever way it goes, the final vote will be close.

EVEN THE CITY DWELLER can manage to find appealing wildlife pictures if he looks for them.

Cities Offer Animal Pictures

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — Say the words "photo safari" to almost any dedicated photographer and his eyes will brighten and his shutter finger will twitch. Then he'll sigh wistfully and mutter sad comments about all those wonderful animal pictures he could get if he only had the time and the money to get to Africa.

If his heart is absolutely set on taking his very own picture of a rhino charging across the veldt, there is little he can do except sigh and check his bank balance.

If, on the other hand, what he wants is challenging animal photography, there is hope. He can find a great deal without ever leaving the country. He can go to the Wyoming high country in search of big-horned sheep, or the Everglades in search of snakes, or the Adirondacks after bear. (if this last doesn't seem rugged enough he can always add to the adventure by going in black fly season.)

Or he can venture to the nearest state park with enough woodland to support racoons and deer, the nearest city park with its crop of squirrels and pigeons, or that patch of woods down the road.

Animals present a challenge to the photographer whereever they are. How exotic and remote the setting is doesn't alter the basic techniques. Just as much patience can be required to get a good picture of a chipmunk as of a lion.

Patience is without doubt, the most important characteristic of the animal photographer. Patience, plus a certain wily ability to sneak up on the subject.

In some cases, of course, you can walk right up to the animal without alarming him. The technique then is to get as close as your camera allows and then crop and enlarge the print later.

Most of the time it will not be that simple, however. A telephoto lens is one good answer, and certainly adds to the margin of safety when you're photographing something as "charming" as a black bear.

Protective cover, such as a blind, will conseal you from the animals while you take your pictures. Be prepared to stay for long periods of time if you want the concealment to be effective.

Or you can set up a remote control device so that the animal takes his own picture while you wait a safe distance away. This is an excellent means of getting birds particularly, since crouching in a tree with your camera until a bird comes within range is seldom practical.

For Detailed instructions on setting up a variety of remote releases, see your photo dealer or write Dept. 454, Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N.Y. 14650. Ask for publication AE-81 "Here's How" and send along $.95 plus applicable state and local sales tax.

Once a remote release has been set up, the rest is up to fate. The camera will photograph whatever is in its range when the release is triggered.

In all other cases it is up to you, depending equally upon your alertness and your perceptive eye. Being able to see and seize a picture opportunity instantly can make the difference between an extraordinary and mediocre picture or, for that matter, between a great picture and no picture at all.

College Credit Courses Offered

Twelve hours of college credit will be offered in Sikeston and Kennett this summer, it was announced by Philip Shelton, executive director of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission.

Shelton said courses will begin June 7, and will be completed no later than Aug. 15. The courses offered will be sociology and state and national government and perhaps another course, if enough interest is shown.

Cost of the courses will be $15 per credit hour.

The tentative schedule in Kennett calls for state and national government classes Mondays and Wednesdays from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and sociology classes on Tuesday and Thursday from 6 to 9 p.m. Sikeston classes will include sociology on Mondays and Wednesdays and state and national government on Tuesdays and Thursday.

A pre - enrollment date has been set for those who wish to enroll in these courses May 18.

Enrollment will begin at 4 p.m. and end at 6 p.m. in Kennett. It will begin at 8 p.m. and end at 9:30 p.m. in Sikeston. Enrollment fees must be paid at that time.

Representatives of Southeast Missouri State College will be present May 18 to advise and counsel those who are considering entering college this fall.

Students in Health Fields Score High

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Southeast Missouri State College students seeking admission to schools in health fields have scored 100 per cent, Dr. John Hinni, chairman of the campus pre-medical advisory committee, has reported to President Mark F. Scully.

Dr. Hinni, also an associate professor of biology, reported that eight students were admitted to medical school, three to dental school, one to a school with a course in medical technology, and one to a school with a course in dental hygiene.

"I doubt that any other college in Missouri can equal this accomplishment," Dr. Scully commented.

The report indicates that three of the eight students seeking admission to medical school were each accepted by three schools.

Four of the eight applicants for medical school were accepted by the University of Missouri, but Vanderbilt University, St. Louis University, Washington University, the University of Alabama and the Kansas City College of Osteopathy also accepted one or more applicants from Southeast Missouri State.

Dr. Hinnir reported this is a favorable trend and indicates the high regard these schools have for Southeast Missouri State.

The University of Missouri Dental School at Kansas City also accepted all three of the applicants for this field as well as the applicant seeking a course in dental hygiene. The student seeking a course in medical technology was accepted by a unit of the University of Tennessee in Memphis.

Students accepted by medical schools are Michael DeWayne Adams, of Route 1, Jackson; Robert Blattner of 2550 Ranchito Dr., Cape Girardeau; Michael J. Conoyer of 18 Blackberry Dr., St. Charles; Ronnie Holland of 1509 Riverside, Cape Girardeau; Leo Kramer of 5880 Kerth, St. Louis; Tom Messer of 909 Normal, Cape Girardeau; Ronald Robinson of Number 1, Shadybrook St., Cape Girardeau; and Kennett Asher of 308 W. Lorimier, Cape Girardeau.

Admitted to dental school were Larry Davis of 305 Pool, Kennett; Robert Fox of 6837 Ravenscorft, St. Louis, and Joseph Jecmen of 303 Themis, Apt. 3, Cape Girardeau.

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Traveling to East? Beware of Moths

WASHINGTON--Those who drive campers or haul mobile homes from the northeast should be sure they aren't also carrying a contraband cargo of gypsy moth eggs or caterpillars.

Plant Protection officials of the U.S. Department of Agriculture are issuing this warning to truckers and haulers, and to campers and their families, at the approach of the vacation season. Commercial carriers and the general public should be alert to the gypsy moth hazard and to their legal obligation to comply with plant quarantine regulations designed to prevent the artificial spread of this destructive pest of fruit, garden and forest trees.

Officials of the plant protection division of USDA's agricultural research service explain that female moths deposit their egg masses indiscriminately -- and consequently a variety of items, including campers and mobile homes, are likely to become infested in areas where the gypsy moth exists.

Last year gypsy moth egg masses were found on mobile homes in Iowa and Illinois. But for quick detection and prompt treatment of the infested vehicle and surrounding area, new infestations of the gypsy moth could -- and probably would have become established to a great detriment of the communities involved.

With the growing popularity of campers and mobile homes, the danger of gypsy moth eggs and caterpillars being artificially spread for long distances by this means is increasing.

As a result of continuing surveillance on the part of PPD's inspection staff, hazardous populations have been found at certain mobile home parks and camp grounds in Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

When mobile home parks are found hazardous, the park owner or operator is advised that mobile homes moving outside the regulated quarantined area must be accompanied by a certificate or permit. Articles are certified for movement only after the inspector has made sure the articles will not carry gypsy moths out of the infested area.

Federal and State plant protection officials are frankly concerned over recent rapid spread of gypsy moths into new areas. Their fear is that the moths will make their way to the hardwood forests of the Ozark Mountains in the south and to the central region of the country. If that happens, the already great losses caused by gypsy moths, could be much greater not only for the timber industry but also for home owners and forest-loving campers.

Haulers or owners moving campers or mobile homes from points in the northeast should first find out if the area is regulated for gypsy moths. If the haulers are moving from or through regulated areas, they should contact the local Plant Protection inspector. He will tell them how to eliminate any hazard of spreading gypsy moths to noninfested areas.

People in Missouri who will travel in the eastern states this summer are urged to learn more about their part in preventing the spread of this pest. They can do this by calling or writing the Plant Protection Division, ARS, P.O. Box 67, Sikeston, Missouri 63801, telephone (314) 471-2703, or Plant Industry Division, Missouri Department of Agriculture, Jefferson Building, Jefferson City, Missouri 65102, telephone (314) 636-7166.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

"Always treat others as you would like them to treat you." (Matthew 7:12, NEB).

That's The Law

Soul Searching Will Upheld

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Myron believed that the best way to get to heaven was to turn right and then go straight forward. And, that's exactly what he did. Along the way, however, through his various business activities, he picked up a cool $200,000.

At no time, however, did he ever lose interest in his heaven-bent course. In fact, when he died, he left his entire estate as a charitable trust for the purpose of conducting scientific research as to the existence of a soul that leaves the human body at death.

Needless to say, it wasn't long before several of Myron's relatives attacked the validity of the trust in court. Claiming Myron's $200,000 as his next of kin, they argued:

"The purpose of the trust makes about as much sense as an expedition into Gnome man's land. It's just throwing away money. To seek the existence of a soul is like investigating the hole in a doughnut."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of Myron's charitable trust?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a request for research, such as made by Myron, may be considered as advancing education or religion; that both purposes have been recognized as charitable in nature. And, concluded the judge, an organization conducting research involving the psychological and psychic aspects of human existence is qualified to carry out the specific purpose expressed in Myron's will.

New Government Balance Needed, Hearnes Says

CAPE GIRARDEAU — American federalism is "seriously out of balance" and the average citizen feels he has lost his sense of being part of the American system because government is "Too far beyond his reach," Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said Monday.

"Wide acceptance has been given to the proposition that the average American has lost contact with his government and in the process has lost much of his faith in its goodness," Gov. Hearnes told the Cape Girardeau Rotary Club during a luncheon address.

He said the lack of "being a part of the American system" is a danger signal. "The strength of our country is in its people, and that strength will be lost if they are alienated from their own government," he said.

The governor said during a brief question - answer period following his speech that he could not withhold from state agencies much - needed state revenue "unless the money is not in the state treasury." This has been the practice for the last quarter of this fiscal year.

He said as part of the effort of states to "win concessions from Congress, which would recognize the willingness of the states to reassume their rightful duties," state leaders have been "putting their own houses in order by modernizing their operations and making them more responsive to public needs."

He pointed out that three other states joined Missouri last year in extending to their governors the power to reorganize the executive branch subject only to legislative veto.

"I tried that last year," he said, "and was vetoed four times." Because the Senate last year vetoed his merit program, which would have put 17 to 20 state employes on the merit system, the state lost over $20 million in additional revenue, the governor told the Rotarians and their wives.

He said the states are handicapped financially. "They must deal with the rapidly increasing demand for domestic programs, but Washington controls most of the money.

"Our prime revenue source in this country, the one most responsive to economic growth, is the personal income tax," he continued. "But the federal government collects 90 per cent of the personal income tax while the state and local governments must rely on tax sources which are not so closely tied to a growing economy."

Charging that federal programs "increase the financial squeeze" on states, Gov. Hearnes asserted that "states have no control over a substantial portion of their own budgets."

He said Missouri must raise $28 million for the Medicaid program and "10 per cent of Congress did not know what they were voting on" when Medicare and Medicaid were adopted.

"So I had $28 million facing me in the budget when I came up for governor and we have to raise that $28 million," he pointed out.

State and local governments are being intimidated by the federal government when it comes to federal - state revenue programs, he said. "Between Congress and the regulations of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, we don't stand a chance," he asserted

The governor also cited the fact that when federal policies are changed, which results in putting additional people out of work and more people eligible for welfare benefits, the states have no alternative "but to come up with the additional cash on short notice."

He said during this fiscal year, the federal welfare costs are running approximately $1 billion to $250 million above what was planned in the budget.

"Accordingly," he said, "the states will have to come up with a similar amount as their share of this federally controlled program."

At this point, Gov. Hearnes pointed out that the State of New York used up practically all the money alloted for Medicaid on the federal level when it was first adopted. He said the state considered a $6,000 salary as "near needy'and it "ended up costing them more then than they had expected."

"I refuse to get involved in this near needy," he said.

In reference to a question on his power to appropriate money if it is not available, the governor said that in March, the state budget stood at $40 million below the amount originally appropriated by the General Assembly.

Explaining that the estimated state income is the amount appropriated for the next fiscal year, Gov. Hearnes speculated that the state could obtain $25 million in additional revenue by natural growth and $20 million by withholding 15 per cent from state agencies.

He said it is like shooting dice. "If you're right, you are a real hero, but if you are wrong you're a heel."

Gov. Hearnes said there has been a great deal of "lip service" given in recent years to the goal of bringing government closer to the people. "Unfortunately," he added, "the talk has usually been translated into additional federal programs operating at the community level instead of a true restoration of the principle that each citizen should have a voice in his government."

He called for a redefinition of the working relationships among the federal, state and local levels of government. "We must have a new working balance which will enable each to exercise its own powers and meet its own responsibilities," he said.

Two Malden Scouts Win Citations

MALDEN — Miss Mary Lanier and Miss Dianna Walter of Malden were among area Girl Scouts who received the First Class Award in ceremonies held Sunday afternoon on the campus of State College at Cape Girardeau.

The first class award is the highest award given in the Girl Scout program. Both scouts are members of Malden Cadette Troop No. 142, and their leader is Mrs. W. M. Johnson.

The ceremonies included the pinning by the scouts of a Dad's Pin on the fathers of the honored Girl Scouts, who served as their escorts for the ceremony; and in turn the pinning of the First Class Award on the scouts by their fathers. Glen Lanier served as the escort for his daughter, Mary; and W. M. (Bill) Johnson served as the escort for his daughter, Dianna.

Mrs. Lanier and Mrs. Johnson were present for the ceremonies.

The two Malden Girl Scouts were among other Cadette Girl Scouts throughout Southeast Missouri who received the First Class Award in recognition of three years of continuous effort.

Al Capp Faces Morals Charge

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (AP) — Cartoonist Al Capp has been charged with a morals offense against a 20-year-old coed. He issued a statement calling the allegation part of a leftist campaign to stop him from speaking on campuses.

Dist. Atty. Lawrence W. Durning said the warrant issued Friday by County Judge Thomas Barland charged Capp with sodomy, attempted adultery and indecent exposure.

The warrant named Alfred G. Kaplin, 61, of Cambridge, Mass., who draws the "Li'l Abner" comic strip and speaks around the country under the Capp name.

Capp has been sharply critical of many who demonstrate in opposition to U.S. policy in Vietnam and of unruly activities of college students.

The warrant and complaint, sent by mail to the sheriff of Suffolk County, Mass., was issued following an investigation by the district attorney's office and police, Durning said.

An Eau Claire State University coed, who cannot be identified under a Wisconsin law which prohibits public identification of victims of sex crimes, told authorities the alleged offense took place April 1.

The complainant, married, told authorities she went to Capp's motel suite to report to him on the liberal point of view on the campus, where he lectured later that day to some 2,500 persons. She had been assigned to brief him after he requested the information, she said.

Capp, whose home is in Cambridge, Mass., replied in a statement issued through his Boston attorney, Alvin Hockberg.

"The allegations are entirely unture," the statement said.

PSC Reduces Gas Tax Increase

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A ruling on Missouri Utilities Co's for a natural gas rate increase in Southeast Missouri was issued Monday by the Missouri Public Service Commission in Jefferson City reducing the proposed annual revenue hike by nearly $68,000 to $96,972.

The company last June applied for an increase of $164,241 which the commission said Monday would have given Missouri Utilities an unreasonably high rate of return on the fair value of its property.

Missouri Utilities' proposed increase would have meant a 6 per cent raise to its customers. Looking at the reduction in annual revenue made by the PSC, it appears the increase to customers might now be about 3½ per cent.

However, the PSC office said it is up to the company to determine the percentage of increase it can make to the customer and stay within the revenue framework outlined by the state body.

The PSC said on a fair value rate base of $5,515,539, the company will earn 6.30 per cent under the new rates compared to a rate of return of 5.40 per cent on present rates.

On net original cost, the company's rate of return will be 7.37 per cent on a base of $4.623.022 compared to a current rate of return of 6.33 per cent.

The company's total revenues after the new rates become effective will be $2,916,712. President annual revenues are $2,819,740, the PSC said. Operating expenses under the new rates will be $2,569,216. Now they are $2,521,326. Net operating income will be $347,496 as a result of the increase. The present net is $298,414, the PSC ruled.

The order will become effective 10 days from issuance — or May 13. Before that date, the company is expected to file the required new tariffs that will bring in revenues within the framework so that the increase can be made to customers on the effective date, the PSC said.

The City of Cape Girardeau opposed the rate increase and participated in cross-examinations in December and oral arguments in February, both held before the PSC. The commission had the testimony under advisement since February.

City Attorney Howard C. Wright Jr. said he has not yet had a chance to study Monday's order.

Dexter and Illmo also intervened in the case.

System for Disruptive Juveniles Called Folly

BOONVILLE, Mo. (AP) — It would be "downright folly" to establish a special system to handle juveniles with behavorial problems, says Walter S. DeClue, superintendent of the Missouri Training School for Boys.

DeClue made the comment Monday about a bill to create such a system that was introduced by Rep. Stephen Burns, R-Des Peres, in the Missouri House.

Burns' proposal calls for a special statewide school district for youths deemed a disruptive influence but not bad enough to be sent to the Boonville institution.

There is a crisis, DeClue said, but Burns' plan is not the answer because educational systems in the state have proven themselves failures. He added if only youths who have committed serious crimes are sent to Boonville, they would pose a serious threat to the staff of the institution and the community.

DeClue said he has repeatedly suggested the state Department of Education and the University of Missouri use Boonville school for "researching educational techniques."

Aid Ready For Storm Victims

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Federal disaster loan assistance will be available this week for victims of the May 5 tornadoes in Linn and Chariton counties in north central Missouri.

The regional director of the Small Business Administration, C. I. Moyer, said the action came after the area eligible for disaster loans had been designated by federal authorities in Washington.

Disaster victims in both Marceline and Rothville may make application though an office established in the city hall at Marceline.

Moyer said any individual, corporation or partnership that suffered a real or personal property loss is eligible to file application for a disaster loan. Rural damage loans are handled through the FHA.

Explosion

SPARKS FROM a cutting torch being used by Woodrow Glass (above) of Sikeston touched off a fire late Monday afternoon in the back of One Hour Cleaners at 112 South Scott Street. Fire Chief Dolph Webb said the torch apparently caused a car's gasoline tank to explode. Glass was working beneath the car when the explosion occurred. He had minor injuries. Two tires on the car were destroyed. Firemen are shown at left battling the blaze to keep it from spreading to the cleaning shop, where minor smoke damage was reported to clothing.

POW Exploitation Reported

SAIGON (AP) — A defector fromNorth Vietnam said today that Hanoi subjects American prisoners of war to "brutal interrogation" and exploits them intensively for strategic and propaganda purposes.

Dr. Dang Tan, a former Communist party official in the North, said the Communists "usually put the prisoners on parade through the streets of Hanoi and other cities."

Tan, who came to South Vietnam four years ago and defected 20 months ago, said in a prepared statement read to a news conference:

"American POWs are subjected to all brutal interrogation methods which the North Vietnamese skillfully employ to extract information from them. This includes brainwashing and political indoctrination. It is the objective of the Central Committee policies to win over the minds of the American POWs.

"The Central Committee of North Vietnam considers that American POWs must be intensively exploited, both for strategic, intelligence and for propaganda purposes. The Ministry of Public Security and the Ministry of National Defense of North Vietnam compete with each other for the exploitation of the American POWs. North Vietnam blatantly violates the International Geneva Convention of 1949 for the humane treatment of POWs by permitting other Communist bloc countries, including the Soviet Union,Communist China, Cuba and others, to exploit the American POWs. This includes trying to take advantage of the families and friends of these POWS in the United States."

Tan said Hanoi will not release all of the American prisoners "now or in the future" because "the Communists believe the POWs are very competent and will be useful to them in the future. They are trying to use their talents now ... Those POWs will not have a chance to go home."

Tan, a slight, bespectacled man of 42, defected in late September 1969 in Pleiku Province in South Vietnam's central highlands. He said he joined the Communist party in 1948 and, after holding a series of administrative posts in North Vietnam, he was sent to South Vietnam in 1967. He siad he set up a hospital in the central highlands "where for two years I treated the wounded and trained medical cadres in the face of bombings and hardships."

In an interview earlier with Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen, Tan claimed that Soviet, Chinese, Cuban, North Korean and French "military strategists" were advising the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces fighting in South Vietnam.

He said he saw these foreign advisers at rest stations on the Ho Chi Minh trail when he traveled south in 1967 and in the next two years in Pleiku he saw "four or five groups of foreign military strategists, each numbering three to five men."

The French were soldiers who had been captured in the 1946-54 Indochina war, he said.

Driver Beaten, Robbed

Joe Godwin

Joe Godwin of 406 Craven was beaten and robbed yesterday afternoon near the Big Oak Store in Mississippi county.

Godwin a delivery man for Hart's Bread, said this morning that while making his daily deliveries yesterday, he stopped by the side of the road near Dorena to rearrange his load of bread. Two men jumped Godwin, beat him and robbed him of a undetermined amount of money. Godwin then drove to Bennett's Store in Dorana for help.

Godwin was admitted to the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where he is being treated for possible concussion and broken ribs.

Postal Increase Sticks

Publishers Denied Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today denied a request by magazine and newspaper publishers to block temporary increases in postal rates, including a boost of two cents in the price of a stamp, scheduled to go into effect on Sunday.

Judge William B. Bryant denied a request for a preliminary injunction against the imposition of the higher rate that had been sought by the Magazine Publishers Association and the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The U.S. Postal Service has scheduled the rate increases averaging about one-third of present rates to take effect on Sunday.

Under the temporary increases, a regular stamp will go from six cents to eight cents; airmail stamps from 10 cents to 11 cents; post cards from five cents to six cents and second and third class rates will be increased by approximately 30 per cent.

The magazine and newspaper publishers and three other organizations representing mailers had contended that the temporary rate increase would be illegal since the Postal Rate Commission has not had time to consider the permanent rates sought by the Postal Service.

Car Fails to Yield

Malden Couple Killed

GIDEON--Two were killed and two others injured Monday in a two-car accident at Gideon at noon.

Dead are John J. Cook, 73, and his wife, Anna Emie, 78, of route two, Malden.

The fatalities occurred when a northbound 1966 Chevrolet, driven by Marjorie Gum, 51, of Clarkton, failed to yield the right of way, the highway patrol said, at the intersection of Gideon street and highway 162 and struck an eastbound 1957 Chevrolet driven by Cook.

Mrs. Gum and Jerry Gum, 25, of Clarkton, sustained minor injuries. Mrs. Gum was given a summons for failure to yield the right of way.

The bodies were taken to Boyd Funeral Home in Malden.

Non-Public Action Comes

Auxiliary Services Approved for Students

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House today passed, 88-63, a bill under which the state would provide auxiliary services for students at nonpublic schools.

Such shared time bills regularly have failed in the past decade in the Missouri Legislature.

Under the bill, public funds could be used to provide such things as crossing guard service, remedial reading, special training for the handicapped, audio visual aid, guidance counseling and so on for students of nonpublic schools as well as public schools.

A fiscal note attached to the bill predicted it would cost about $3.4 million a year to provide the extra services to all school children.

The arguments over the bill were in the same vein as they have been for the past 10 years.

Rep. Robert E. Young, RCarthage, said despite an opinion from Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth that the bill was constitutional he was opposed to providing any educational services to those who attended private or parochial schools.

But Rep. Thomas D. Graham, D-Jefferson City, provided the major argument on the other side.

He said "let's forget our religious differences and think of the children of the state. We ought to vote for this bill and forget our petty differences.

Earlier this session, the House defeated a bill that would have the state purchase secular services from nonpublic schools at an annual cost of about $29 million.

The House also passed, 84-53, a bill that would let business districts spruce themselves up and attract more business under a special benefit district proposal.

The districts could issue revenue bonds for such things as increased parking, malls, improved lighting and new streets.

The auxiliary services and special benefit district bills now go to the Senate.

Monday, the House killed two bills, one banning use of nonreturnable containers for beer and soft drinks and the other setting a presidential primary for the last Tuesday in February of presidential years.

There was no discussion as the House pounced on the presidential primary bill. It was defeated on a voice vote.

The container bill, designed to reduce the growing litter problem, was defeated 60-90 after lengthy argument. Opponents called it ridiculous and said it might even force the closing of all drive-in restaurants where beverages are served in throwaway paper cups.

Rep. Stan Thomas, D-Liberty, said he introduced the bill because the cost of cleaning up litter along roadways in the United States now adds up to $33 million a year.

The House advanced a bill setting a minimum wage of $1.60 an hour the first year, $1.80 an hour the second year and $2 the third. The measure exempts agricultural or domestic labor, handicapped persons or young people working parttime or during the summer months.

There have been many minimum wage laws proposed in Missouri but none has ever cleared both houses of the legislature. Two years ago the House passed one but it died in the Senate.

Man Charged In Filling Station Holdup

Melvin Daniel Smith, 20, of Cape Girardeau has been charged with armed robbery in connection with the early Sunday morning holdup of Hart's Standard Station in Miner, Sheriff John Dennis reports.

The station was robbed of $195 early Sunday morning, but Cape Girardeau police would not say if the money had been recovered.

Smith was being held in the Cape Girardeau city jail on charges of leaving the scene of an accident and investigation of armed robbery when the the robbery charge was filed for the Hart Service Station holdup. It was reported that Smith is charged with the Saturday night robbery of Thoni's Service Station in Cape Girardeau. More than $40 was taken.

Smith has been in custody since 6:30 p.m. Sunday when he was apprehended by Cape Girardeau police.

$200 and Six Months

Sikeston Woman Jailed

Bernice Lane of 307 Alabama was fined $200 this morning and sentenced to six months in jail on two charges of driving without an operator's license and driving while intoxicated.

Magistrate Judge Lloyd G. Briggs said that the first charge of driving with no operator's license was more an "aggrevation" than an offense. Mrs. Lane has been charged with the same offense in 1969.

"The second charge of driving while intoxicated not only endangers your life, but the lives of others on the highways," Briggs said.

The woman asked for probation on the jail sentence, but following a report from Assistant Prosecutor John Wilson saying the woman tested at .22 per cent alcoholic content at the time of her arrest, the judge said the woman was "absolutely drunk and stood committed."

She was turned over to Scott County Sheriff John Dennis for transferal to the county jail in Benton.

Jack E. Clemens of Sikeston acted as his own attorney this morning on trial for failure to register his automobile.

Clemens claimed his residency was in Michigan but Briggs convicted him and fined him $75. The judge then stayed $50 pending disposition of the case.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled June 1 into a bad check charge against Leroy Elfrank of 244 Kinder.

After entering a plea of innocent April 27 to a charge of assault, Faddie Bonner of Sikeston this morning changed his plea to guilty and was sentenced to 30 days in jail. The jail time was stayed and Bonner was placed on six months probation.

Winfred Beaird of 2009 Kentucky was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail on an assault charge. the sentence was stayed on condition that Beaird not repeat the offense.

A warrant was issued for C. Allen Broyles of New Madrid when he failed to appear in court. Broyles is charged with writing a bad check.

Bad check charges against David Ferguson of 133 North Ranney and George Pittman of Sikeston were continued until next Tuesday.

A charge of stealing against Gary Chism of 501 South New Madrid, was continued until next week. A preliminary hearing will be held then.

Charges of operating a vehicle with an out-of-state license against Cornell Cassell of Charleston were dismissed.

Dicey Johnson of 1003 North Ranney entered a written plea of guilty on a charge of careless driving and was fined $15.

Vote Today On Successor To Orton

CARUTHERSVILLE — (AP) — Voters in Pemiscot County go to the polls today to elect a successor to Clyde Orton, who was ousted as sheriff by the Missouri Supreme Court last month for oppression in office and neglect of duty in connection with gambling and liquor law violations.

Among several candidates in the running is Mrs. Hazel Orton, wife of the ex-sheriff. She is considered a favorite because of her husband's strength in past elections.

Orton, a Democrat, filed as a candidate in the special election but the court ordered his name kept off the ballot. He has complained that this action was politically motivated. The case was prosecuted by the office of state Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, a Republican.

Other candidates are Thad Shelly, who was appointed interim sheriff; former deputies Charles A. Farris, Neely Mitchell and Richard Pankey; Bill White, Gail Davidson and Clyde Manley.

Tempers Flash in Senate

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Tensions and tempers flashed as the Missouri Senate began the week in a debating mood Monday.

Three bills were perfected after a long-winded clashing session.

One, which could give Missouri students $840 in state aid for higher education was the victim of numerous amendments and emotional debate lasting more than three hours.

At one point, visitors were hustled out of the gallery and the press ousted from the chamber as the Senate went into executive session to calm members in private.

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, said Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, should resign or be ousted if he failed to tell the committee the state Commission on Higher Education opposed the bill.

Howard denied the charge. He said he was shocked by such accusations and thought the Senate had sunk to a new low in subterfuge and deceit. That was when the executive session was called. Howard reportedly was repremanded.

Nixon Says Nix

Personal Fight Against Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon took personal command today of the fight to wipe out cancer, backed by a proposed extra $100 million in federal funds.

Proposed legislation for the war against the disease is awaiting House action, with the additional money included.

Predicting that Congress will move the program along quickly, Nixon said in a statement that "the time has now come for us to put our money where our hopes are ... Our Capacity for efficient management was instrumental in our efforts to split the atom and travel to the moon. Now we need to apply those same capacities to the conquest of cancer."

A special new agency would be set up within the National Institute of Health, to be designated as a Cancer-Cure Program where it could take advantage of all wide-ranging research now going on.

The President said the agency would have an independent budget and be directly responsible to him.

The President told the white House press corps there have been some significant breakthroughs that make it possible to look forward to a cancer cure and added:

"It will not fail for the lack of funds. It will not fail for the lack of organization. It will call on all the resources of NIH, and it will not suffer from a lack of presidential interest."

STRAIGHT TALK
FOR AMERICANS

Tom Anderson reminds us that there are "27,931 ways" of making a living in America without getting on welfare. Yet welfare is growing 18 times faster than our population. In addition to the 63 million drawing social security and veterans benefits, 11 million Americans are on public assistance, while ten million more receive free doctors' services under Medicare.

Mr. Anderson quotes one campus radical saying to another: "But what happens to our unemployment checks when we over throw the government?" Perhaps no one has told him that in Communist countries everyone who is able to work must do so unless he wants to starve to death. The government is not only living beyond its income, remarks Anderson, "It is living beyond yours and mine." He compares it to a hungry snake that keeps on swallowing more and more of its tail "until there is no tail — and no snake."

The welfare state causes more problems than it cures.

According to The Elks Magazine, "it's not funny but ... inflation has inspired a raft of jokes here. One of the more popular is about the man who went to a supermarket to do the family marketing for the week and was asked by the bag boy whether he wanted a shopping cart. 'No thanks', he answered. 'I won't need one. I've only got a twenty on me.' "

CARE'S 25TH ANNIVERSARY

At the close of the Second World War, Americans with relatives and friends in Europe found it difficult or impossible to send them the food and supplies they so desperately needed. Overseas transportation was disrupted and mail deliveries undependable. To fill the need for a reliable channel for person-to-person aid, a private, non-profit agency named CARE was established in November, 1945, in Washington, D. C. The next spring, President Truman donated $1,500 to the new operation -- and on May 11, 1946, the first CARE package of food was delivered in LeHavre, France. Since then, the phrase "send a CARE package" has become a part of theAmerican idiom, and the organization has expanded its aid and services to include 35 countries in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East. The only remaining CARE Mission in Europe is one in Greece.

To commemorate its 25th anniversary, CARE is holding a World Conference in Washington. The conference started Monday, May 10, with a special dinner today to mark the sending of the first package. Mrs. Richard M. Nixon is serving as honorary chairman of the 25th Anniverary Committee. Anniversary celebrations will also be held throughout the United States and Canada and in many of the countries on the receiving end. The Dominican Republic,Guatemala and Panama have announced they are issuing commemorative stamps for the occasion.

The well-known CARE ads, with pictures of gaunt, waif-like children and appeals such as "Half the world is hungry - will you help?," are printed free of charge by many magazines. The ads tell prospective contributors they may specify which CARE program they would like to support -- Food Crusade, Self-Help or the MEDICO service. The food program includes food for children and pregnant women, agricultural supplies and nutritional training. CARE estimates it will help feed 25 million people in 1971, about 94 per cent of them children. Funds for the Self-Help program go to such projects as school construction, family planning assistance and training in farming methods. MEDICO, incorporated into the agency in 1962, provides doctors and other health professionals to staff medical centers in some countries.

Anthropologist Margaret Mead didn't look the part when she blew into Dallas bursting with ideas about sex and pot, but she sounded like a sexpot. She was the star of an SMU symposium on Sex, Science and Woman's Role. After a day of Mead, Dallas was a wrung-out but entertained city. She held forth again on marijuana, espousing the theory that she merely wants to stop addict transference from marijauna to heroin by doing away with marijauna laws. Having barely digested that, Dallas heard her say she's looking forward to a drop in the number of family units so that people will become parents because they want to. As for all those single people who will be left out of marital bliss, well, society will just have to allow the unmarried "some kind of human companionship because everybody from 16 to 90 isn't going to have to be married." Was Dr. Mead suggesting the Woman's Role in American life be that of a doped-up sex fiend? No one knew, because she posed more questions than she answered.

Charles Schwab had a mill manager whose men weren't producing their quota of work.

"How is it," Schwab asked, "that a man as capable as you can't make this mill turn out what it should?"

"I don't know," the man replied, "I've coaxed the men; I've pushed them; I've sworn and cussed; I've threatened them with damnation and being fired. But nothing works. They just won't produce."

It happened to be the end of the day, just before the night shift came on.

"Give me a piece of chalk," Schwab said. Then, turning to the nearest man: "How many heats did your shift make today?"

"Six."

Without another word Schwab chalked a big figure six on the floor, and walked away.

When the night shift came in, they saw the "6" and asked what it meant. "The big boss was in here today," the day men said. "He asked us how many heats we made, and we told him six. He chalked it down on the floor."

The next morning Schwab walked through the mill again. The night shift had rubbed out "6," and replaced it with a big "7."

When the day shift reported for work the next morning they saw a big "7" chalked on the floor. So the night shift thought they were better than the day shift, did they? Well, they would show the night shift a thing or two. They pitched in with enthusiasm and when they quit that night, they left behind them an enormous, swaggering "10."

Shortly the mill, which had been lagging way behind in production, was turning out more work than any other mill in the plant.

"The way to get things done," said Schwab, "is to stimulate competition. I do not mean in a sordid, money-getting way, but in the desire to excel."

THE BRITISH CENSUS

An anti-census campaign in Britain has begun with the burning of forms at mass rallies. Both the National Council for Civil Liberties and the militant Young Liberals escalated their opposition to the full census conducted in England on Sunday, April 25. "Information is political power," says Tony Smythe, an official of the Civil Liberties group who has been going up and down the country trying to persuade law-abiding Britons not to fill in their forms. The Young Liberals plan to go so far as to sabotage collection by impersonating census enumerators. Although the first census in America was conducted by the colony of Virginia in 1624, nationwide British censuses did not begin until 1801. Since that time they have continued without incident every 10 years with the exception of 1941. The present census is the most extensive yet undertaken in the United Kingdom and its questions are the most far-reaching. It is twice as long as the 1961 form and, in most respects, similar to the American census. Where the last census merely asked people where they were born, the present one asks immigrants the date of their entry into Britain and the nationalities of their parents.

The National Council for Civil Liberties points out that the data provided from such questions could well provide fodder for racists. But the Young Liberals go one step farther in attacking the principle on which the census is based. Their members find the idea of detailed comptuerized records on every person in the United Kingdom "intolerable." But The Guardian thinks the protests exaggerated and argues (April 11) that people must ask themselves whether or not they want to improve the quality of the information on which the community can plan its future.

It is suggested that the 1971 census may be so thorough as to eliminate the need for further censuses. The data derived from this survey, when combined with that taken from the Public Records Office, should be sufficient to compute facts and figures for the British population in the future. Brian Milton, the Young Liberal program co-ordinator, told Editorial Research Reports in London: "This is our last chance to take non-violent action against the computerized Data Bank Society."

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The kind of cook that annoys me most is the kind that thinks you can improve the taste of anything by dumping a double handful of raisins in it at the last minute. There are some dishes—sauerkraut for one—which simply don't need raisins.

One of the best ways for a general to enjoy renown with posterity is to fight his winning battles only on sites that will look scenic on post cards later.

It's a curious fact about the average man's knowledge of medicine: for everyone that can help you stop a nosebleed, there are at least 20 who can give you a positive cure for hiccups—or tell you how to get rid of warts.

A bridegroom thinks it's cut for his bride to pad around the kitchen barefoot, but if she does it 30 years later he complains, "Do you have to be sloppy about everything you do?"

The hardest kind of boss to work for is the one who insists on looking you squarely in the eye when he calls you on the carpet and bawls you out. This is because you know he's enjoying himself. A boss who dislikes rebuking an employe usually keeps his eye on the ceiling or stares out the window until his distasteful chore is over.

Any liberated woman over 40 years or 140 pounds who seeks to prove her freedom by wearing hot pants may win her campaign—but she has lost the war.

Add pretty sights: Two small children trying to whip the rainy day doldrums by pressing their faces against a wet window pane to see which can make the flatter pug nose.

Few men who take guests to a restaurant luncheon or dinner have the courage to check the addition on the bill when it comes; if they did, they'd be amazed at how often they were being cheated, knowingly or unknowingly.

Socrates was the ancient Greek philosopher who has often been called the wisest man who ever lived. He is also, you may recall, the fellow who said, "Once made equal to man, woman becomes his superior."

A delusion is what a fat man has who really believes that wearing either a singlebreasted or a double-breasted suit will make him look slimmer.

I never yet have met a redhaired woman who had an inferiority complex or felt she had led an altogether unsatisfactory life.

It is easier to be forgiven for painting a poor picture than for telling a joke badly.

Nothing makes a guy feel smugger than finding a mistake made by his wife or a calendar.

KEEP STATE HANDS
OFF FRINGE BENEFITS

The Missouri Senate has taken sensible action in putting aside other business to advance a bill that would remove employes' fringe benefits from the state's tax rolls. As desperately as Missouri needs new revenue, this is not the way to get it.

The Senate move — coupled with similar action in the House — was prompted by a recent ruling from the State Revenue Department that fringe benefits from employers to employes were subject to the state income tax. The Revenue Department regulation was based on an opinion by the Attorney General's office.

This would be a thoroughly inequitable tax, placing an unjust burden on employer and employe alike. Not even the federal government — which has its hand in virtually everything where tax dollars are to be had — taxes fringe benefits such as insurance premiums and pensions, profit - sharing and deferred - compensation plans.

Furthermore, the levy would be self - defeating. Deprived of tax - free fringe items, workers most certainly would try to make up the loss by seeking higher wages, thereby spurring inflation. Employers would be put in a further financial bind.

There is also the problem of administering the plan. Enforcement would be difficult and complicated, probably adding to the already high costs of running the Revenue Department.

And what business or industry would find Missouri an attractive location with this heavy tax weight hanging over them?

Legislation to prevent this tax gouge should be expedited by both chambers of the General Assembly.

TRAVESTY OF A NEWSPAPER

A U.S. Press Association article in the Kahoka, Mo., Gazette - Herald tells about a new newspaper called NewsMan. "It is unlike any other newspaper we have ever seen." It is published by a nonprofit agency, financed by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. A lead article suggests how to start "a community action newspaper." A cardinal rule for the publication of such a paper, according to NewsMan, is to give it away free. "If you give the newspaper away free, you'll have the advantages of: (1) a large readership; (2) you'll know that low income people will see it, and; (3) you probably won't need a license of any kind ..."

As the article concludes, "And there you have it -- the advice to let the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington, or one of its substations, pick up the tab for the 'community action newspaper' .... Giving the paper away will permit the poverty - fighters to whoop about circulation and make fevered pleas to Washington to please send more money." Also, as NewsMan points out, there are disadvantages to selling anything else: "...you'll probably have to keep books and pay taxes ..." Moreover, "... if your paper isn't interesting every issue, you won't be able to sell enough copies ..."

It is doubtful if "a community action newspaper," like the foregoing, would be much of an asset to the community – nor would it provide much competition for a first - rate, tazpaying, business -operated newspaper, run by an editor unafraid to express his convictions.

NO NEED FOR
NEW DEPARTMENT

In line with previous published statements, the Appeal continues to contend that no new Pollution Board is needed in Missouri.

Creation of such a board and department would merely add more expense to our already top-heavy operational costs of our state government.

Since pollution is a matter of health, the sensible move seems to us to be to charge enforcement of pollution statutes to the State Board of Health, then give that department the money with which to operate.

It would probably be just as efficient, possibly more so than a board which might easily include members who are involved in operations that created some of our pollution. It would also save considerable money in overhead and staff salaries and costs.

H.L. Hunt Says

DRUGS ARE DANGEROUS

A legislative committee studying the drug abuse problem in Viet Nam reported recently that approximately 60 per cent of U.S. servicemen there have used blackmarket narcotics. If the estimate of the group is correct, we face as dangerous a situation on the drug front in Indo-China as we do on the battle front.

The investigation showed that the bulk of the offenses involved marijuana, but this is not to be taken lightly for marijuana is dangerous itself. It has an hallucinating effect and while there is no concrete medical evidence that its use permanently disturbs the mind, experts in the field of law enforcement say that users frequently graduate to more dangerous drugs.

Director William Frazier of the Dallas police department's vice-control section says the pattern that he and his detectives have found in their investigations is one of gradual evolution from marijuana and barbiturate use to heroin.

"And heroin, it should be rememberd, is the most deadly of drugs," Director Frazier said. "There are very few cases that we have come across where a heroin addict is permanently cured." He warns that drug arrests are on the increase but those figures that are released monthly by police can be as dangerous as an iceberg.

"I would guess that for every one person we arrest there are seven to ten others that we don't catch or don't even know about," he said.

If this sounds frightening, it is meant to be. Law enforcement agencies with limited manpower can do just so much. It is up to the citizenry to give them help and provide mass education that will slow down and eventually crush the menace of illegal narcotics. HLH.

By Victor Riesel

Ante in Billions
Insiders See No Way to
Prevent Recession-Making
Steel Strike

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK: — It follows, as Richard Burton does Elizabeth Taylor, that every recent president has been convinced that it is the wage spiral which pushes up prices. And therefore the White House must push down down on wage demands which brings a counterpush from labor's legions.

And therefore insiders believe there will be a depressing steel strike this summer or fall.

From personal conversations, and from intimate presidential records, there is proof positive that Dwight Eisenhower, Jack Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson and now Richard Nixon have personally, or through their vice presidents or special emissaries, secretly urged the United Steelworkers union to go easy on their demands. Often they have. And there hasn't been a strike for 12 years. But this time steel union chief I. W. (Abe) Abel is not budging. He can't control the restless rank and file and the militants among the union's 600 local presidents.

What they want takes lots of arithmetic -- and it adds up to lots of money. The demand is for the "can settlement." Meaning a $1.10-an-hour wage boost. Meaning $1.2 billion in increases during the third year of the new contract. The figure is high because the basic steel negotiations will cover 544,866 workers (as of Feb. 8).

Yet in 1970, the entire steel industry -- according to its own statistics – made only $511 million. Thus the steel union's rank and file are pushing for twice as much in wages and benefits as the entire industry makes in a year. Of course, if the industry pays out a dollar in wages it has a tax deduction of about half that. So, in effect, the accountants say, it will just about break even on basic production if the union gets what it wants.

But the pencil-pushers forget that there are lots of white collar employes in the steel industry – who will get what the hourly rated men in the mills win. So however you slice it, the industry will either have to shut down facilities or operate at a loss -- unless it raises prices substantially.

It it does, the cost of everything else will blow up. So will President Nixon's anti-inflation economic game plan.

So will the legions of jobless as hundreds of thousands of fighting men return from Vietnam and war production oozes out into a swampy economy while the nation reconverts to peace.

That will take time. But Rome wasn't built in a day -- and they're still remaking the old inner city. It will take time to rebuild our ghettos despite the passionate belief in academic and way-out political circles that the moment this nations stops making ammo, stops dispatching war material-laden freighters, stops bombing the Viet Cong, it will pitch into instant remake of inner cities.

So there is a weird parallel with the 1959 strike crisis. Then as now, there was simultaneous rising of unemployment, prices, wages and inflation. Then, as now, the nation was on the eve of a presidential election year. Then, as now, the White House account executive in charge of first heading off a steel strike and then settling it was Richard Nixon. Then, as insiders now expect, there was a long steel strike and a recession.

So the stakes are great -- for the public and the President. But there appears no way to head off the strike and the recession unless the rank and file cools it. And there's little evidence of lower temperatures --or tempers.

In fact, the Aluminum Industry Council of the United Steelworkers of America (AFL-CIO) now is trying to top its union counterpart which recently negotiated a settlement with the can industry. The aluminum workers want an increase of about $1.40 an hour, a 54 per cent pension increase, a cost-of-living escalator clause for all three years, and lots and lots of what are strangely enough called fringe benefits. It's a mysterious phrase to the public so I list some of them here.

Such benefits run anywhere from insisting that there be pure air and an end to all pollution -- but, says the union, "our members should be protected against loss of earnings when plants or departments are required to shut down because of pollution levels."

Or they want "broadened mental health coverage, the establishment of a more comprehensive and more easily utilized paid prescription drug program and coverage for dental care and prescription eye glasses."

Or, "the continuation of health and life insurance coverage at employer cost during strikes and the pendency of discharge proceedings."

Or " a shorter work week without a reduction in pay" as "the answer to many of the economic problems of our two nations (including Canada)."

Or they want "dramatically" increased pensions and cost of living adjustments for those already on pensions.

They want and want. And if their leaders loudly, fervently, and frequently pledge all this to them and infinitely more, they begin to take the rhetoric seriously. And so strike steam builds up.

The official opening of this crises is set for May 19 when the leaders of both sides confer formally in Washington on these billion-dollar demands. The next moment of consequence comes when the contract expires August 1. Then the headlines will scream. And this one battle the public will lose. Eventually the wages will go up. So will prices.. So will inflation. No force appears able to prevent it. Why?

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — That tireless guardian of the nation's morals, J. Edgar Hoover, has collected more than $250,000 in royalties from three books researched and ghostwritten for him by FBI agents on government time.

This is an offense, if it had been committed by some other government official, that the FBI might have been asked to investigate. For the money rightfully should have gone to the taxpayers, who paid the salaries of the FBI researchers and writers.

In defense of Hoover, friends say he turned over the proceeds to his favorite charities. They cited the J. Edgar Hoover Foundation, whose records we immediately inspected. No royalty payments nor cash donations were listed from the FBI chief.

We also determined that royalty checks were made out to Hoover personally, not to charities.

Of the three books, the biggest money maker was "Masters of Deceit," published in 1958 by Holt (not Holt, Rinehart and Winston), which sold almost 250,000 copies. Then it was bought up by Pocketbook, which sold two million paperback copies.

In 1964, Warner Brothers paid Hoover a reported $50,000 for the movie rights. although no movie was even made of the book. Insiders suggest the payment was intended to butter up the old bear so he would permit Warner Brothers to film the popular TV series, "The FBI."

TV RIGHTS

Again, the taxpayers, not Hoover, should have been paid for the TV rights to FBI stories. For the FBI, after all, is a government agency, not Hoover's private police.

The FBI chief's book, "Study of Communism" published by Holt in 1962, sold some 125,000 copies. And a paste-up collection of Hoover's sayings, published by Random House as a book entitled "On Communism," sold around 40,000 copies.

Insiders say the man who authored Hoover's best prose is Special Agent F. C. Stukenbroeker, a talented Ph.D., whose sinewy writing would have made him a fine author in his own right. Stukenbroeker gulped out an "of course I can't say thing about that," when we asked him how much of the three Hoover books he had written and whether he received a bonus for them.

The research for the three books, we also have learned, was done on government time by FBI employees. They drew heavily from the files of the Domestic Intelligence Division, an ex-FBI bigwig told us. The arrangements for the books and the TV series were also handled largely by FBI men on government time.

Footnote: We tried in vain to get a response from the embattled old G-man. A spokesman would say only, "No comment."

WASHINGTON WHIRL

Federal Infiltrators--Hundreds of federal agents, dressed in hippie garb, infiltrated the recent antiwar demonstrations in Washington. Most effective were the narcotics agents, who speak the language of the drug culture and wear their hair long and unkempt as a regular guise. They submitted handwritten reports, charging hawkers sold drugs instead of hot dogs to the crowds and sexual intercourse was a spectator sport. They reported that some of the LSD was diluted with strychnine, causing serious illnesses. One report quoted Rennie Davis, the demonstration leader, as planning to dress radical girls as tourists, provide them with cans of lighter fluid and have them set fires in governments buildings.

Nixon's News-- We have had access to President Nixon's private news digests for last week. We found an occasional personal comment from Pat Buchanan who prepares them. In one aside, he suggested that the Washington Post's coverage of the antiwar demonstrations indicated the paper was seeking a national award. And a Buchanan aide, reporting on a George Wallace TV appearance, noted that the performance was smooth but that Wallace spoke from the "gut." On the whole, however, we found the presidential news summaries carefully objective. Most stories were boiled down to the bare bones. but the total impact was comprenensive.

Heroin Smuggling— The Customs Bureau has ordered a thorough search of returning GIs and incoming parcels from Vietnam to curb the flow of super-grade Saigon heroin into this country. Insiders tell us, however, that some GIs send heroin home in first-class envelopes, which have been ironed so they will go through the mails without detection. Others dip their writing paper in a heroin water solution. After it dries, they write seemingly innocent letters which can be moistened and squeezed for heroin injections. Then the letters can be shredded and smoked in cigarettes or pipes.

Postal Nepotism--The Post Office has developed a new form of nepotism. When Assistant Postmaster General James Hargrove testified on Capitop Hill recently, he took along his brother Clyde as counsel. The Post Office told us, however, that Clyde Hargrove made little profit from the appearance: a token $1 fee.

Foreign Aid -- Pete Peterson, the President's international economics adviser, made a strong foreign aid appeal to GOP congressional leaders the other day behind closed White House doors. He described the economic and educational needs of underdeveloped countries. For instance, he told the leaders that only about 5 per cent of the population of underdeveloped countries ever reach high school.

MRS. FRED KOCH, left, club co-ordinator for the Junior Women's Club, presented the Girl of the year Award to Kacky Garner at a mother - daughter banquet Monday at the Ramada Inn. Tim Chambers entertained with songs.

Pornography Tends To Make Sex Boring

Dear Ann Landers: "Stunned in Connecticut" would be really stunned if she knew how many community leaders, clergymen, high government officials and little old ladies in tennis shoes had pornographic collections. I am a typist who prepares the mailing envelopes for so-called erotic literature and art. We mail material all over the world -- and to some of the darndest places and most unlikely people. Naturally our mailings go out in plain envelopes. Everything is hush-hush and bat-blind.

My friends have the notion that I must get a whale of a wallop out of being in the middle of all this naughty stuff. Frankly, I am bored sick with it.

I believe an adult should be able to see anything he wants to see and no one should have the right to tell him what he can or cannot see. But there IS something out of kilter with all this free-and-easy, wide-open dissemination of garbage. The behavioral experts tell us that pornography does not incite people to commit sex crimes nor does it promote antisocial behavior. Yet I deplore the fact that, for the price of a theater ticket, people can now see live performances of the sex act at a number of places in the larger cities -- at high noon.

Will you comment, please? --- Clouded Vision.

Dear Vision: The best statement I have ever heard or read on this subject was made by Norman Cousins (Saturday Review). He wrote: "The danger is not that the exploitation of sex may arouse lust but that it could produce impotence. By detaching sex from love and annihilating privacy, sex is robbed of its delight. What is even worse, an infallible formula has been found for making sex boring. People who insist on seeing everything run the risk of feeling nothing."

Amen, Norman. Amen.

Dear Ann Landers: I am eleven years old and in the sixth grade. My sister is eight years old and very babyish. Almost every night she makes up some phony ailment and busts into my folks' bedroom and asks if she can sleep with them. My mother is an old softie and she always says yes.

I am afraid my little sister is ruining my parents sex life. Should I talk to her about it or should I talk to my mother? Rush your advice to the Newark News. This is a serious problem.---Berkeley Heights.

Dear Berk: It is considerate of you to be concerned about your parents' sex life but this is really not your department. Children should not be taken into their parents' bed at night because it sets up a pattern of dependency which is unhealthy for the child. I have said this in the column several times. I'm sorry your mother missed it.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend who is not exactly a liar but she has a way of exaggerating that drives me up the wall. I've been with her when certain incidents have occurred and then I have listened to her recount the story. The way she magnifies everything is shocking. Why do people do this? What does it mean?---Emma.

Dear Emma: Your friend probably exaggerates to make the story more interesting. But there's actually more to it. Small minds are like a microscope. They have the ability to magnify little things but they cannot see the big picture.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking And Petting -- What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Kansas City Royals and the St. Louis Cardinals both came up with big innings and victories Monday night.

The Royals, who recently ended a 23-game losing streak to Baltimore, turned on the world champions for the third time this season. The score was 4-1.

St. Louis outscored the Montreal Expos 8-5.

Amos Otis and Bruce Dal Canton proved too much for the Orioles at Baltimore. Otis, after knocking in the Royals' first run in the fifth, climaxed a surge in the seventh by smashing a three-run home run, his fifth.

Otis got the homer, two singles and a double in four times at bat. Dal Canton, notching his third straight victory, scattered five hits. He is now 3-1.

It was the second time this season Kansas City has beaten Baltimore ace Dave McNally, whose record is 5-2.

St. Louis used two basesloaded walks, pitcher Jerry Reuss' two-run double and Lou Brock's single for five runs in the seventh inning to overcome the Expos at Montreal.

Joe Hague slammed two home runs for St. Louis. His first came in the second with nobody on base and the second in the sixth with one aboard. The score was tied 3-3 when the Cardinals broke loose loading the bases on two walks and a single with nobody out. Mike Marshall, relieving starter Steve Renko, 3-2, got two outs before yielding two basesloaded walks. Then Reuss and Brock came through.

Reuss won his fourth game against three defeats. He spaced eight hits and needed help in the ninth from Frank Linzy, who got the final out.

Kansas City will pitch Dick Drago, 4-1, tonight at Baltimore. The Orioles will counter with Pat Dodson, 2-2. St. Louis remains at Montreal and will send Reggie Cleveland, 2-2, against the Expos' Carl Morton, 3-4.

Dogs Club Charleston; Face Cape Today at VFW

When asked about this afternoon's showdown between Sikeston and Cape Girardeau Central in the district baseball tournament, Bulldog Coach N. P. McDaniel said he hoped his crew would put together a "good defense behind Don". The Don, Coach McDaniels referred to, is Don Miller, the Bulldogs' top pitcher, who will be on the mount in today's 4 p.m. clash at V.F.W. stadium.

Miller paced the Bulldogs through last year's state tournament playoffs, taking them into regional competition. The hard throwing right handet will be up against a Cape Central lineup that has wacked off 13 straight victories after an opening loss to Jackson— in a 4-3 game.

Sikeston takes into today's game a 9-2 record, with losses coming from Chaffee (7-6),and an earlier loss to the Central crew in a 9-0 affair.

On the mound for the Bengals will be Mark Hogan, a pitcher, who blanked the SHS squad earlier this season, holding it to three hits in the April 14 contest.

At stake this afternoon is the district championship and a ticket to advance into the state tournament. It was only last year when these same two teams collided in the district battle. Sikeston took that contest and moved into the sectionals and into the regionals before bowing out to the eventual state champions from Lafayette.

Cape, the only Southeast Missouri school to claim a state baseball title, brings into Sikeston its 13-1 record, and a chance to avenge last year's district loss at Capaha Park. Cape has won the state title twice, last in 1962. For the Bulldogs, a state title came the closest in 1951 when Sikeston as runner-up to St. Louis Central.

Monday Afternoon the Bulldogs sharpened up their hopes for a victory today by blasting the Charleston Blue Jays, 12-1, in a conference clash played in Bertrand.

The Bulldogs blasted the Blue Jay pitching for 13 hits, four of which were doubles. Eighteen Bulldog batters saw action in the game that opened into an early 5-0 lead for Sikeston in the first inning.

Junior Mike Mitchell collected the victory from the mound of McDaniel's crew, and received late help in the sixth inning from Bob Blankenship. Mitchell had pitched the SHS squad to a 9-0 lead in his five innings of work, and Blankenship carried the squad the rest of the way to the 12-1 victory.

Shortstop John Vines and Center Fielder David Hackney paced the Bulldogs' 13 hit barrage with two safeties apiece. Vines, Bob Walker, Bo Ralph, and Paul Johnson each collected one of the team's four doubles.

Opening up the first inning, five Sikeston players circled the diamond off three straight opening walks, three fielders's choices, an error and two singles.

Charleston managed to chalk up a run in the sixth inning, as Blue Jay centerfielder Mitchell scored on Mark Chaney's double, one of the three Charleston hits in the game.

Junior DeLay suffered the defeat on the mound for the Charleston squad. Nine Blue Jay batters were retired through strike outs accumulated by Mitchell and Blankenship.

Sports Briefs

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Donald L. Gambril, 37, an assistant coach of the U.S. Olympic team in 1968, is the new head swimming coach at Harvard.

The university confirmed reports in naming Gambril Monday to succeed retiring Bill Brooks. Gambril has coached California State at Long Beach to a 48-3 dual meet record the past four seasons.

BOSTON (AP) — Northeastern Coach Joe Zabiliski says he has no problem with football players with long hair.

"If long hair does become a problem, we'll invite the players to the handball court and play them for the price of a haircut," Zabilski said Monday before launching spring practice.

Zabilski and members of his staff play handball regularly.

BOSTON (AP) — Tommy Conners, 132, of Boston and Benny Ramirez, 130, of New York fought to an eight-round draw in a featured boxing bout Monday night at the Arena.

A crowd of about 2,500 was attracted by the fights, which included closed-circuit telecasts of three heavyweight bouts in Toronto Oakland and Chicago.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Flint, Mich., Sports Center will be used for this year's training camp by the St. Louis Blues' National Hockey League club, the Blues announced Monday.

The team formerly trained in Ottawa, Ont., Canada.

The Blues' management said the Flint facility was chosen because it has two arenas. One seats 1,000 persons and will accommodate 500 standees. The second arena has seating for 4,002 and 900 standees.

Portageville Sets Pace In District 'M' Track

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Portageville, behind a 42-point team effort, took top team honors in the class M district track meet Saturday at Houck Stadium. Ste. Genevieve finished second with 38 points followed by Caruthersville with 35½.

Favored East Prairie, claimed four blue ribbons in the 15-team competition but wound up in fourth with a 29-point total.

Only one record was set in the Saturday afternoon meet. That going to the East Prairie's 880-yard relay team. The Eagle's foursome set the new mark at a 1 minute, 32.9 seconds.

Speed Unpredictable

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — In years past, drivers were well aware what speeds they and their opponents were capable of. Predictions of the speed needed to capture the pole position for the Indianapolis 500mile race were a dime a dozen.

Not so this year. With only four days remaining before the first weekend of qualifications, it is nearly impossible to find a driver who'll predict his own speed, let alone what speed will take the pole

The reason for the disappearance of the traditional wholesale prophecies is 34-yearold Mark Donohue of Media, Pa. Nobody knows how fast this graduate engineer from Brown University can really go in his McLaren-Offenhauser.

Donohue continued to stun nearly everyone at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Monday as he turned in a 177.340-miles-per-hour lap, second only in the history of the Speedway to his own 177.901 a week ago.

He has consistently turned in lap speeds in excess of 176 miles per hour, something unheard of here until this May.

An unprecedented 11 drivers have joined the exclusive "170 Club," turning in at least one lap on the 2½-mile track averaging more than 170.

Peter Revson, 175.063; Bobby Unser, 175.0; Mario Andretti, 174.520; Al Unser, 174.4, and Mike Mosley, 174.4, have done the best behind Donohue. But the 2.9 miles per hour difference between Bobby Unser's best and Donohue's best looks nearly insurmountable.

Al Unser, the man who sat on the pole and won the 1970 race, sat in the grass near the pit wall Monday morning and shook his head.

"There's no way I'm going to make a prediction (on the speed it will take to win the pole). Not the way Mark's been running," Unser said.

The Kansas City Royals have obviously said 23-skidoo to the Baltimore Orioles' jinx over them while the New York Mets caught up with Houston's Wade Blasingame just as he was about to count 10 and out.

After losing 23 straight games to the Orioles the last two years, Kansas City made it three out of four over Baltimore this season with a 4-1 victory Monday night behind the slugging of Amos Otis and Bruce Dal Canton's five-hit pitching.

The Mets had never beaten Blasingame and were in danger of dropping their 10th in a row to the Astros' left-hander until Bud Harrelson singled home two runs in the seventh inning for a 2-1 triumph.

Elsewhere on Monday's slim major league slate, San Francisco and Juan Marichal edged Cincinnati 3-2, Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs struck out 12 and became the National League's first six-game winner by blanking Philadelphia 3-0, St. Louis whipped Montreal 8-5 and Detroit downed California 5-2.

Dal Canton and loser Dave McNally were locked in a scoreless battle with two out in the fifth inning when the Royals took a 1-0 lead on singles by Freddie Patek, Cookie Rojas and Otis, who earlier singled and doubled. Otis then homered in the seventh following Jerry May's double and a walk.

Baltimore's only run came in the eighth and was unearned when left fielder Carl Taylor dropped a two-out fly ball with a runner on second.

Manager Bob Lemon diclosed that Otis did his heavy hitting on an upset stomach.

Blasingame had protected a 1-0 lead on singles by Bob Watson and Denis Menke and a double play grounder from the second inning until the seventh when Jerry Grote, who broke up a no-hit bid in the fifth, lashed a one-out double.

Don Hahn got an infield hit and took second on Tommie Agee's tap in front of the plate, with Grote holding third. Harrelson then drilled his decisive hit to center field.

Marichal, who recorded his 2,000th career strikeout, held the Reds to one hit until the sixth when Pete Rose singled and Tony Perez homered. By that time, however, the Giants had all their runs with Willie Mays, Ken Henderson and Tito Fuentes getting the RBIs.

Jenkins fired a four-hitter at the Phillies, retiring 17 consecutive batters between singles by Larry Bowa in the third and eighth. Billy Williams doubled off Chris Short in the sixth, took third on Jim Hickman's single and scored the only run Jenkins needed on Joe Pepitone's grounder. In the eighth, Glenn Beckert singled and Hickman homered.

The Cardinals, who filled the bases with none out in the seventh inning of a tie game, pushed across five runs after reliever Mike Marshall picked up two outs. Marshall then walked Ted Sizemore and Dick Schofield, pitcher Jerry Reuss belted a ground-rule double and Lou Brock singled the final run across.

Joe Hague drove in the first three St. Louis runs with a pair of homers.

The Tigers jumped in front of the Angels 2-0 in a weird first inning that consisted of a single, walk, two errors and two wild pitches.

Jim Northrup singled with two out and raced to third on Andy Messersmith's wild pickoff attempt. Norm Cash walked and took second while Northrup scored on a wild pitch. When catcher John Stephenson's throw to the plate hit Northrup and rolled away Cash continued to third, scoring, on another wild pitch.

Dick McAuliffe homered in the fifth and the Tigers got two more in the sixth, the last run coming on a wild pitch by Mel Queen. Roger Repoz homered for California's first run.

Gideon

BROSELEY -- Gideon put it all together in state district action Monday afternoon as they slammed, pitched, and fielded their way past Neelyville for the 3-0 baseball championship.

Gideon will play the winner of today's Cape Central - Sikeston contest in State District play at the V.F.W. park Friday for the sectional title.

Mark Littell went the distance for the victors, fanning 13 and allowing only one hit in the shutout contest. Home runs and extra base hits were instrumental in paving the way for the Bulldogs win. Mike Nolin smashed the first pitch he saw over the fence for the game's first run and safety.

Mike Nolin went two -for -four at the plate, driving in teammate Tommy Bell for the second run with his fifth inning double. Bell, Mike Nolin, and Bruce Coleman collected consecutive doubles in the one -run scoring fifth inning.

After opening the game with a round - tripper, Gideon kept its bats hot. Jim Huckeby added the second home run in the sixth inning for the final tally.

Mike Nolin, Coleman, and Huckeby collected six of the Gideon hits smashing two a-piece. Five of the seven safeties went for extra base hits.

John Tyler handled the mound chores for the Neelyville squad, while teammate Larry McKinley added the squad's lone hit, a single.

Sellouts Highlight Playoffs

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Stars are hurting on the court but not at the gate as the American Basketball Association championship playoffs against Kentucky returns to the Salt Palace.

Wednesday night's fifth game between the Stars and Colonels was sold out at 13,208 Monday, giving Utah a 77,147 total for six playoff games, including three against Indiana for the ABA Western Division title. That's an average of 12,858 per game.

Attendance for the first four games between Utah and Kentucky outdrew four-game Milwaukee-Baltimore National Basketball Association playoffs, 47,459 to 45,623. However, the Salt Palace and Louisville's Freedom Hall have larger seating capacities.

The best-of-seven Utah-Kentucky series is now down to the best-of-three as the Colonels won Friday night and Saturday in Louisville to knot the series at 2-2.

Utah coach Bill Sharman says any home-court advantage is needed Wednesday night to offset ailments of three key players — Zelmo Beaty, Merv Jackson and Red Robbins.

Robbins, who had averaged 18.7 points a game in the playoffs, came down with an upset stomach Friday and was still ailing Monday.

Beaty, who has played the ABA's scoring leader, Dan Issel, head-to-head, says he is suffering headaches that begin in the second half. The headaches have been occurring for several weeks, he says.

Beaty's primary problem in the last two games, however, was foul trouble. He was whistled for three before the half Saturday and fouled out before Utah pulled even at 119-119 in regulation play.

Kentucky won 129-125 in overtime on the secoring of Louie Dampier, who finished with 33.

Dampier had been held considerably under his 18-point average by Jackson, whose knee injury worsened after the series' opening game.

Jackson played only 15 minutes Friday night and 24 Saturday.

The teams return to Louisville next Saturday for a nationally televised sixth game. If necessary, the seventh game will be played in Utah May 18.

Before You Buy

By Margaret Dana

Do you agree that the government should not only require all automobiles to have built - in seat belts for passengers, but should also compel all passengers to use them? There is evidence that seat belts have protected or could have protected many people from injuries in car accidents. The question now being raised, however, is whether the government should require you to do something which has nothing to do with protecting others -- only yourself.

Now is the time when the thoughtful opinions of consumers should be heard and reckoned with, as a great national change is actually in prospect -- a change that abridges the individual's freedom of choice, not to protect the public but on the assumption the government has superior judgment in protecting YOU,the individual.

A rule, published in final form a few weeks ago, by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration states that on January 2, 1972, manufacturers of passenger cars will be required to provide one of three options for occupant protection. the three choices given car makers are these:

(1) A complete so- called "passive" protection system that would protect occupants from serious injury in a crash up to 30 miles per hour. The passive protection referred to would be the automatic "cushion" being experimented with quite successfully, or a similar device.

(2) A protection system, including lap belts, that must protect front - seat occupants in crashes that are called frontal barrier crashes, up to 30 miles per hour. This provision includes a seat= belt warning system that will ring a bell or a buzzer and flash bright lights until seat belts are fastened.

(3) A combination lap - and - shoulder belt system, with the same warning system of lights and sound that will not stop unless all belts are fastened.

The question being raised and needing the serious consideration of all people is whether this further emphasis on safety through compulsory restraints for passengers is the sound, sensible way to correct the growing traffic accident toll, or whether requiring better driver competency and responsibility, stiffer licensing, removal of drunk or arrogant drivers, and better road design for safety is not actually the only effective cure.

Where the safety of others is involved, a law that requires compliance with a safety provision makes sense. That is why laws require we drive on the right side of the road instead of where we please, and observe traffic lights whether we want to stop for them or not. And, obviously, good design for car safety and reliability engineering is a right consumers should demand. Poor design or quality control can endanger the safety of others -- not just the owner or driver of a car.

But as I study "Analysis and Summary of Accident Investigations," the annual report from the Federal Highway Administration of the U.S. Department of Transportation, I see over and over again the phrases, "...traveling too fast for road conditions; ... driver under influence of alcohol; ... driver asleep at the wheel; ... driver went into wrong lane," etc.

Neither improved car design and quality control nor mandatory use of seat belts and other passenger restraints can cure the problem created by the ignorant, the careless, the irresponsible or drunk drivers on the road. For many years the National Safety Council has struggled to cut down the burden of traffic accidents and damage. It feels the use of seat belts by everyone will do it.

There is no question that people should have the right to have and use seat belts if they wish. But by the compulsory installation of seat belts in cars the government has actually forced the 67 per cent of all Americans who do not use seat belts, to spend $250 million a year buying them anyway.

Your opinions are important on this, and will count, if you write at once to: Speed Control, Docket Section, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, Department of Transportation, Washington, D.C. 20590.

(Margaret Dana welcomes opinions and questions on buying and will use them in hercolumn as rapidly as research and space permit. Personal answers are impossible due to the large volume of mail from readers. Address: Margaret Dana, Research Center, R.D. 3, Doylestown, Pa. 18901.)

Youth's Vile Shouts Mar Church Service

CHAFFEE-Three Chaffee youths, described as younger than 17 years of age are being sought in the Sunday evening disturbance of peace at the Calvary Baptist Church.

It is reported the youngsters, all boys, opened the church door during services and shouted a string of four-letter words completely disrupting the services.

Police Officer Kenneth Henning joined the chase after the youths in company with men of the congregation.

Officer Henning said the group of men lost the boys after a chase west out Yoakum Avenue, through the school yard, behind the hospital, across the highway turning behind Smith's Service Station, behind Bryant's Machine Shop and into the junk cars parked behind Beck's Garage.

Henning added that there is evidence to indicate who the boys are and that he and Police Chief Raymond Rowell are working on the incident.

Henning said another incident of youths disregard for church property occurred when a large load of empty beer cans were dumped on the lawn of the First Baptist Church.

"One big difference between men and boys is the price of their toys."

Convicts to Study On Rolla Campus

ROLLA--For three years inmates of several Missouri penal institutions have been taking university courses while in prison. Now, under a new program to be started this fall by the University of Missouri-extension division, selected inmates will take courses on the UMR campus.

According to Dr. David Hentzel, who started UMR's prisoner education program, two grants totaling $134,908 from the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council (with funds coming from the U.S. Department of Justice) will allow UMR to expand its in-prison program and initiate the new on-campus program for prisoners.

This fall, UMR will cooperate with the State Department of Corrections, the Board of Probation and Parole and the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation in bringing about six carefully screened inmates to the campus for classes. Inmates, under the supervision of representatives of the State Department of Corrections, will live in a resident center in Rolla and will attend regular classes at UMR.

Dr. John Dahm, who will direct this program at UMR, says these selected inmates from the Missouri State Penitentiary for Men are those who have one to two years left to complete their sentence or to probable parole. They also have tested out well in examinations given by the UMR Counseling and Testing Center.

"Many of them have taken UMR courses taught at the prison and are on their way to earning degrees," Dr. Dahm says. According to Dr. Hentzel, this education release program is a pilot model for the State of Missouri. "Of the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance grant, $24,777 will go toward the support of the education release program," Dr. Hentzel says.

Under $110,131 of the funds, UMR will continue and expand its in-prison programs in Missouri. Credit courses will again be taught by UMR faculty at the Missouri State Penitentiary for Men in Jefferson City and at the Medium Security Prison in Moberly. Course offerings will be extended to the Algoa Intermediate Reformatory and the State Correctional Center for Women at Tipton. According to Dr. Hentzel, over 100 inmates are currently enrolled as UMR students this year. Among courses which have been presented are those in sociology, psychology, philosophy, American and ancient history, English composition, economics and wester civilization.

Dr. Hentzel started the program of teaching university courses to inmates at the Jefferson City institution in the fall of 1968. Through state and federal funding, the program has expanded rapidly, including academic and personal counseling, to become a total program of rehabilitation through education.

Unfair Labor Charges Aired

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A hearing on four complaints of unfair labor practices by an engineering firm and labor union engaged in construction at the Noranda Aluminum Co. plant south of New Madrid opened Wednesday.

Conducting the hearing in the bankruptcy courtroom of the Federal Building are repersentatives of the 14th District, National Labor Relations Board, St. Louis.

Involved is Kaiser Engineer, a division of Kaiser Industries Corp., and Local 908 of the Operative Plasterers' and Cement Masons' International Association of the United States and Canada, AFL-CIO.

Complainants are Howard Sterling of Cape Girardeau and Donald J. Rickus of Farmington. They allege discrimination by both the union and Kaiser Engineers, claiming the union forced the company to discriminate against them. Each complainant filed separate cases against the union and company but the suits were ordered consolidated by Joseph H. Solien, regional director for the 14th District of the NLRB.

Victor Witee of St. Louis is here as legal counsel for the labor relations board. W. A. Gilles is trial examiner.

THE FAMILY PARTY announcing a couple's engagement is one of many wedding traditions. Pictures of this important event are a vital part of their wedding album as well as a priceless addition to the family archives. The wise photographer watches for natural moments rather than relying entirely on posed groupings.

Photographs Priceless Wedding Gift

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — The traditional church wedding is only one of the choices on the 70's marriage scene. The trend is to match wedding style with life style -- and the trend applies to wedding photography, too.

"Individualism ... meaning ... intimacy" are the bywords of the new rites that can take place anytime, anywhere, from daybreak in a city park glen to midnight in the living room of a friend's home. To record the highlights of such a ceremony, one should always rely on a professional photographer. However, a friend or relative who brings his camera along can supplement his coverage and capture some of the less formal sidelights of the event.

As an amateur photgrapher, you have a priceless gift to give that special young couple planning to get married this summer. When you acknowledge their invitation, enclose a note indicating that you will be taking pictures for them throughout their day. Then, make plans to take the kind of pictures they would want.

Before the day of the wedding, stock up on a color-print film, such as Kodacolor-X, and magicubes or flashcubes. Check out your camera and batteries if it needs them. Also, find a snapshot album that suits the couple's taste and set it aside to be quickly filled with your prints when they come back from the photofinisher.

Warm up for wedding day by taking pictures at the shower, luncheon, bachelor party or even the rehearsal dinner. Indoors, keep your picture subjects within your camera's flash range -- about 4 to 9 feet for a Kodak Instamatic X-15 camera with magicube. Watch for candid picture opportunities in which people will look their natural best. An animated conversation makes a more interesting picture than a stiffly smiling lineup.

Eyeglasses and other shiny surfaces will not bounce your flash back at you if you remember this tip from experts at Kodak. Choose camera position so that subjects with eyeglasses are not looking straight at the camera -- so shiny surfaces are not parallel with the front of your camera. An angle of about 45 degrees will eliminate unwanted glare. Before you shoot, double-check everything in your picture area, especially background.

Your best photo plan for the wedding day might be summed up in one word, "people." By concentrating on taking pictures of the bride and groom, their relatives and friends, you will capture the essence of the occasion, whether it borders on the customary or the unusual. Look for details of expression and dress that color the festivities. Be sure to take pictures of men -- so often ignored in wedding pictures -- as well as women and children.

Whenever possible, move in as close as your camera and flash permit to take your picture. This eliminates unnecessary background detail and focuses attention on your immediate subject. Close-ups, like the new wedding rites themselves, feature impact and simplicity.

For medium shots within your camera's flash range, or outdoors, look for little ironies and contrasts to bring your photo to life. Include an object or person in the foreground of a snapshot to picture a contrasting situation, and enjoy a bonus of added dimension or depth.

If you purchase processing mailers with your film, send them off immediately after the wedding, so that the finished prints will arrive in plenty of time for you to arrange them in the album before the newlyweds return from their honeymoon.

When you send out or deliver your photo gift, why not inclue a few extra album pages for the newlyweds to fill with their own pictures of newly married life? If they already own a camera, include a cartridge of film and magicubes or flashcubes to get them started on their own picture-taking. And if they are cameraless -- even after all the wedding gifts have been logged in -- why not surprise them with an inexpensive, simple nonadjustable camera like the Kodak Instamatic 44 camera or Kodak Instamatic X-15 camera?

For one-stop shopping before the wedding, there is even a Kodak Smile Saver kit that includes the Kodak Instamatic X-15 camera, a cartridge of Kodacolor-X film, a sleeve of Sylvania blue dot magicubes, a camera pouch, wrist strap and -- a photo album.

Six from Area Among Trainees

JEFFERSON CITY--Six southeast Missouri men are among 40 recruits who began training Monday at the new Missouri State Highway Patrol Law Enforcement Academy in Jefferson City.

Col. E. I. Hockaday, patrol superintendent, said the recruits will receive 24 weeks of continuous academic training. Men who successfully complete the special police and college courses will be commissioned and assigned to various troop areas.

They will work under the supervision of experienced officers for two months before returning to the academy for one month of further classroom study, Colonel Hockaday said.

Britain's Entry in Common Market to Be Decided

LONDON — The chips are down. The British can no longer claim that they are waiting for Gen. de Gaulle to die and the French are no longer arguing that they must wait until the British become European. After a decade of negotiations and two vetos, Britain's entry into the Common Market will be decided this summer.

Britain considers itself as an applicant, not a supplicant. The Tories, as well as the Labor leaders, are not prepared to go in at any price. The chief British negotiator, Geoffrey Rippon, says that the talks in Brussels are no longer concerned with "matters of principle, but with matters of common sense." The issues now are Britain's contribution to the agricultural subsidy of The Six, the future of sterling as a reserve currency, sugar quotas for Britain's Commonwealth partners, special status for New Zealand's agricultural produce, and the future EEC budget.

Why does Britain want in? Because, as Prime Minister Edward Heath said in a major speech to Parliament, "Politically the challenge is to create a unity of action which will give our countries collectively that position in world affairs which individually is beyond our reach." And former Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who opened the current negotiations while still in office, said in Birmingham that Britain's entry was "an issue which could conceivably have more effect on our industrial prospects ... than any event since the end of World War II."

The French, surprisingly enough, also want Britain in. To be sure, reports the Economist, there are still some Gaullists who believe that it would be a victory for France to send Britain packing or who are convinced Britain would try to torpedo some of the achievements of the Six once in side the Common Market.

French President Georges Pompidou sees the EEC as a confederation of states. France rejects the idea of majority voting and insists on national governments retaining full control over the decisions of the community. This view is currently shared by Health. Most probably the French and British leaders will meet this summer to discuss the form that European monetary cooperation should take and to hammer out the future organization of European defense.

Popular opinion polls show that Frenchmen are more ready to welcom Britain into the Common Market than the British are to join it. A Eurovision poll revealed that 64 per cent of the French think the Common Market would benefit England while 59 per cent of the British consider it would be bad for the U.K.

The Tories are frankly concerned that the longer the negotiations drag on, the stronger the opposition willbecome. The anti-Market forces include Vic Feather, general secretary of the Trades Union Congress, who argues that entry would mean rising prices and growing unemployment, and Enoch Powell, the outspoken M. P. from Wolverhampton, who believes Britain would lose much of her sovereignty by joining. "I don't want to see this nation drowned in other nations," Powell says.

The Heath government fears that unless the principal issues are quickly settled in Brussels, the sourness of public opinion will turn into outright opposition. Although Heath would not suffer politically by calling off negotiations, ideologically he is committed to joining. For its part, the Labor Party plans to hold a special conference on the Common Market before givin a final parliamentary verdict. Whichever way it goes, the final vote will be close.

EVEN THE CITY DWELLER can manage to find appealing wildlife pictures if he looks for them.

Cities Offer Animal Pictures

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — Say the words "photo safari" to almost any dedicated photographer and his eyes will brighten and his shutter finger will twitch. Then he'll sigh wistfully and mutter sad comments about all those wonderful animal pictures he could get if he only had the time and the money to get to Africa.

If his heart is absolutely set on taking his very own picture of a rhino charging across the veldt, there is little he can do except sigh and check his bank balance.

If, on the other hand, what he wants is challenging animal photography, there is hope. He can find a great deal without ever leaving the country. He can go to the Wyoming high country in search of big-horned sheep, or the Everglades in search of snakes, or the Adirondacks after bear. (if this last doesn't seem rugged enough he can always add to the adventure by going in black fly season.)

Or he can venture to the nearest state park with enough woodland to support racoons and deer, the nearest city park with its crop of squirrels and pigeons, or that patch of woods down the road.

Animals present a challenge to the photographer whereever they are. How exotic and remote the setting is doesn't alter the basic techniques. Just as much patience can be required to get a good picture of a chipmunk as of a lion.

Patience is without doubt, the most important characteristic of the animal photographer. Patience, plus a certain wily ability to sneak up on the subject.

In some cases, of course, you can walk right up to the animal without alarming him. The technique then is to get as close as your camera allows and then crop and enlarge the print later.

Most of the time it will not be that simple, however. A telephoto lens is one good answer, and certainly adds to the margin of safety when you're photographing something as "charming" as a black bear.

Protective cover, such as a blind, will conseal you from the animals while you take your pictures. Be prepared to stay for long periods of time if you want the concealment to be effective.

Or you can set up a remote control device so that the animal takes his own picture while you wait a safe distance away. This is an excellent means of getting birds particularly, since crouching in a tree with your camera until a bird comes within range is seldom practical.

For Detailed instructions on setting up a variety of remote releases, see your photo dealer or write Dept. 454, Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N.Y. 14650. Ask for publication AE-81 "Here's How" and send along $.95 plus applicable state and local sales tax.

Once a remote release has been set up, the rest is up to fate. The camera will photograph whatever is in its range when the release is triggered.

In all other cases it is up to you, depending equally upon your alertness and your perceptive eye. Being able to see and seize a picture opportunity instantly can make the difference between an extraordinary and mediocre picture or, for that matter, between a great picture and no picture at all.

College Credit Courses Offered

Twelve hours of college credit will be offered in Sikeston and Kennett this summer, it was announced by Philip Shelton, executive director of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission.

Shelton said courses will begin June 7, and will be completed no later than Aug. 15. The courses offered will be sociology and state and national government and perhaps another course, if enough interest is shown.

Cost of the courses will be $15 per credit hour.

The tentative schedule in Kennett calls for state and national government classes Mondays and Wednesdays from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and sociology classes on Tuesday and Thursday from 6 to 9 p.m. Sikeston classes will include sociology on Mondays and Wednesdays and state and national government on Tuesdays and Thursday.

A pre - enrollment date has been set for those who wish to enroll in these courses May 18.

Enrollment will begin at 4 p.m. and end at 6 p.m. in Kennett. It will begin at 8 p.m. and end at 9:30 p.m. in Sikeston. Enrollment fees must be paid at that time.

Representatives of Southeast Missouri State College will be present May 18 to advise and counsel those who are considering entering college this fall.

Students in Health Fields Score High

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Southeast Missouri State College students seeking admission to schools in health fields have scored 100 per cent, Dr. John Hinni, chairman of the campus pre-medical advisory committee, has reported to President Mark F. Scully.

Dr. Hinni, also an associate professor of biology, reported that eight students were admitted to medical school, three to dental school, one to a school with a course in medical technology, and one to a school with a course in dental hygiene.

"I doubt that any other college in Missouri can equal this accomplishment," Dr. Scully commented.

The report indicates that three of the eight students seeking admission to medical school were each accepted by three schools.

Four of the eight applicants for medical school were accepted by the University of Missouri, but Vanderbilt University, St. Louis University, Washington University, the University of Alabama and the Kansas City College of Osteopathy also accepted one or more applicants from Southeast Missouri State.

Dr. Hinnir reported this is a favorable trend and indicates the high regard these schools have for Southeast Missouri State.

The University of Missouri Dental School at Kansas City also accepted all three of the applicants for this field as well as the applicant seeking a course in dental hygiene. The student seeking a course in medical technology was accepted by a unit of the University of Tennessee in Memphis.

Students accepted by medical schools are Michael DeWayne Adams, of Route 1, Jackson; Robert Blattner of 2550 Ranchito Dr., Cape Girardeau; Michael J. Conoyer of 18 Blackberry Dr., St. Charles; Ronnie Holland of 1509 Riverside, Cape Girardeau; Leo Kramer of 5880 Kerth, St. Louis; Tom Messer of 909 Normal, Cape Girardeau; Ronald Robinson of Number 1, Shadybrook St., Cape Girardeau; and Kennett Asher of 308 W. Lorimier, Cape Girardeau.

Admitted to dental school were Larry Davis of 305 Pool, Kennett; Robert Fox of 6837 Ravenscorft, St. Louis, and Joseph Jecmen of 303 Themis, Apt. 3, Cape Girardeau.

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

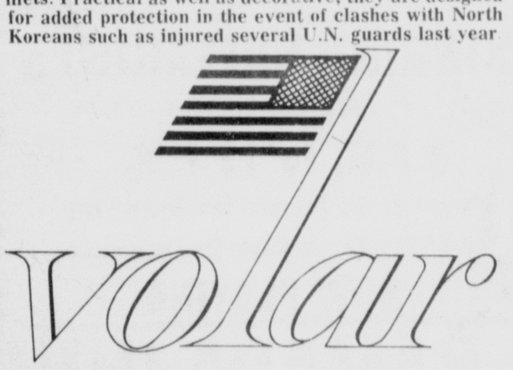
SUPERSHOPPING SOVIET STYLE is now possible in some of the USSR's largest cities thanks to some East-West cooperation in consumerism. Moscow store featuring the familiar, in the West, labeled aisles, self-service shelves and checkout counters is among the first of a chain, named Universam, built and equipped with Italian aid opening up this year throughout the Soviet Union.

ON GUARD at the Korean truce village of Panmunjom, United Nations Command troops sport new plastic helmets. Practical as well as decorative, they are designed for added protection in the event of clashes with North Koreans such as injured several U.N. guards last year



VOLAR—Volunteer Army—is a test to evaluate actions and procedures at selected Army posts in fiscal years '71 and '72 in an effort to increase recruitment and retention by improving the quality of Army life. The most visible aspects of VOLAR are the material improvements at the four test posts stateside: Fts. Benning, Carson, Bragg and Ord. # Traveling to East? Beware of Moths

WASHINGTON--Those who drive campers or haul mobile homes from the northeast should be sure they aren't also carrying a contraband cargo of gypsy moth eggs or caterpillars.

Plant Protection officials of the U.S. Department of Agriculture are issuing this warning to truckers and haulers, and to campers and their families, at the approach of the vacation season. Commercial carriers and the general public should be alert to the gypsy moth hazard and to their legal obligation to comply with plant quarantine regulations designed to prevent the artificial spread of this destructive pest of fruit, garden and forest trees.

Officials of the plant protection division of USDA's agricultural research service explain that female moths deposit their egg masses indiscriminately -- and consequently a variety of items, including campers and mobile homes, are likely to become infested in areas where the gypsy moth exists.

Last year gypsy moth egg masses were found on mobile homes in Iowa and Illinois. But for quick detection and prompt treatment of the infested vehicle and surrounding area, new infestations of the gypsy moth could -- and probably would have become established to a great detriment of the communities involved.

With the growing popularity of campers and mobile homes, the danger of gypsy moth eggs and caterpillars being artificially spread for long distances by this means is increasing.

As a result of continuing surveillance on the part of PPD's inspection staff, hazardous populations have been found at certain mobile home parks and camp grounds in Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

When mobile home parks are found hazardous, the park owner or operator is advised that mobile homes moving outside the regulated quarantined area must be accompanied by a certificate or permit. Articles are certified for movement only after the inspector has made sure the articles will not carry gypsy moths out of the infested area.

Federal and State plant protection officials are frankly concerned over recent rapid spread of gypsy moths into new areas. Their fear is that the moths will make their way to the hardwood forests of the Ozark Mountains in the south and to the central region of the country. If that happens, the already great losses caused by gypsy moths, could be much greater not only for the timber industry but also for home owners and forest-loving campers.

Haulers or owners moving campers or mobile homes from points in the northeast should first find out if the area is regulated for gypsy moths. If the haulers are moving from or through regulated areas, they should contact the local Plant Protection inspector. He will tell them how to eliminate any hazard of spreading gypsy moths to noninfested areas.

People in Missouri who will travel in the eastern states this summer are urged to learn more about their part in preventing the spread of this pest. They can do this by calling or writing the Plant Protection Division, ARS, P.O. Box 67, Sikeston, Missouri 63801, telephone (314) 471-2703, or Plant Industry Division, Missouri Department of Agriculture, Jefferson Building, Jefferson City, Missouri 65102, telephone (314) 636-7166.

Soul Searching Will Upheld

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Myron believed that the best way to get to heaven was to turn right and then go straight forward. And, that's exactly what he did. Along the way, however, through his various business activities, he picked up a cool $200,000.

At no time, however, did he ever lose interest in his heaven-bent course. In fact, when he died, he left his entire estate as a charitable trust for the purpose of conducting scientific research as to the existence of a soul that leaves the human body at death.

Needless to say, it wasn't long before several of Myron's relatives attacked the validity of the trust in court. Claiming Myron's $200,000 as his next of kin, they argued:

"The purpose of the trust makes about as much sense as an expedition into Gnome man's land. It's just throwing away money. To seek the existence of a soul is like investigating the hole in a doughnut."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of Myron's charitable trust?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a request for research, such as made by Myron, may be considered as advancing education or religion; that both purposes have been recognized as charitable in nature. And, concluded the judge, an organization conducting research involving the psychological and psychic aspects of human existence is qualified to carry out the specific purpose expressed in Myron's will.

New Government Balance Needed, Hearnes Says

CAPE GIRARDEAU — American federalism is "seriously out of balance" and the average citizen feels he has lost his sense of being part of the American system because government is "Too far beyond his reach," Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said Monday.

"Wide acceptance has been given to the proposition that the average American has lost contact with his government and in the process has lost much of his faith in its goodness," Gov. Hearnes told the Cape Girardeau Rotary Club during a luncheon address.

He said the lack of "being a part of the American system" is a danger signal. "The strength of our country is in its people, and that strength will be lost if they are alienated from their own government," he said.

The governor said during a brief question - answer period following his speech that he could not withhold from state agencies much - needed state revenue "unless the money is not in the state treasury." This has been the practice for the last quarter of this fiscal year.

He said as part of the effort of states to "win concessions from Congress, which would recognize the willingness of the states to reassume their rightful duties," state leaders have been "putting their own houses in order by modernizing their operations and making them more responsive to public needs."

He pointed out that three other states joined Missouri last year in extending to their governors the power to reorganize the executive branch subject only to legislative veto.

"I tried that last year," he said, "and was vetoed four times." Because the Senate last year vetoed his merit program, which would have put 17 to 20 state employes on the merit system, the state lost over $20 million in additional revenue, the governor told the Rotarians and their wives.

He said the states are handicapped financially. "They must deal with the rapidly increasing demand for domestic programs, but Washington controls most of the money.

"Our prime revenue source in this country, the one most responsive to economic growth, is the personal income tax," he continued. "But the federal government collects 90 per cent of the personal income tax while the state and local governments must rely on tax sources which are not so closely tied to a growing economy."

Charging that federal programs "increase the financial squeeze" on states, Gov. Hearnes asserted that "states have no control over a substantial portion of their own budgets."

He said Missouri must raise $28 million for the Medicaid program and "10 per cent of Congress did not know what they were voting on" when Medicare and Medicaid were adopted.

"So I had $28 million facing me in the budget when I came up for governor and we have to raise that $28 million," he pointed out.

State and local governments are being intimidated by the federal government when it comes to federal - state revenue programs, he said. "Between Congress and the regulations of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, we don't stand a chance," he asserted

The governor also cited the fact that when federal policies are changed, which results in putting additional people out of work and more people eligible for welfare benefits, the states have no alternative "but to come up with the additional cash on short notice."

He said during this fiscal year, the federal welfare costs are running approximately $1 billion to $250 million above what was planned in the budget.

"Accordingly," he said, "the states will have to come up with a similar amount as their share of this federally controlled program."

At this point, Gov. Hearnes pointed out that the State of New York used up practically all the money alloted for Medicaid on the federal level when it was first adopted. He said the state considered a $6,000 salary as "near needy'and it "ended up costing them more then than they had expected."

"I refuse to get involved in this near needy," he said.

In reference to a question on his power to appropriate money if it is not available, the governor said that in March, the state budget stood at $40 million below the amount originally appropriated by the General Assembly.

Explaining that the estimated state income is the amount appropriated for the next fiscal year, Gov. Hearnes speculated that the state could obtain $25 million in additional revenue by natural growth and $20 million by withholding 15 per cent from state agencies.

He said it is like shooting dice. "If you're right, you are a real hero, but if you are wrong you're a heel."

Gov. Hearnes said there has been a great deal of "lip service" given in recent years to the goal of bringing government closer to the people. "Unfortunately," he added, "the talk has usually been translated into additional federal programs operating at the community level instead of a true restoration of the principle that each citizen should have a voice in his government."

He called for a redefinition of the working relationships among the federal, state and local levels of government. "We must have a new working balance which will enable each to exercise its own powers and meet its own responsibilities," he said.

Al Capp Faces Morals Charge

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (AP)— Cartoonist Al Capp has been charged with a morals offense against a 20-year-old coed. He issued a statement calling the allegation part of a leftist campaign to stop him from speaking on campuses.

Dist. Atty. Lawrence W. Durning said the warrant issued Friday by County Judge Thomas Barland charged Capp with sodomy, attempted adultery and indecent exposure.

The warrant named Alfred G. Kaplin, 61, of Cambridge, Mass., who draws the "Li'l Abner" comic strip and speaks around the country under the Capp name.

Capp has been sharply critical of many who demonstrate in opposition to U.S. policy in Vietnam and of unruly activities of college students.

The warrant and complaint, sent by mail to the sheriff of Suffolk County, Mass., was issued following an investigation by the district attorney's office and police, Durning said.

An Eau Claire State University coed, who cannot be identified under a Wisconsin law which prohibits public identification of victims of sex crimes, told authorities the alleged offense took place April 1.

The complainant, married, told authorities she went to Capp's motel suite to report to him on the liberal point of view on the campus, where he lectured later that day to some 2,500 persons. She had been assigned to brief him after he requested the information, she said.

Capp, whose home is in Cambridge, Mass., replied in a statement issued through his Boston attorney, Alvin Hockberg.

"The allegations are entirely unture," the statement said.

PSC Reduces Gas Tax Increase

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A ruling on Missouri Utilities Co's for a natural gas rate increase in Southeast Missouri was issued Monday by the Missouri Public Service Commission in Jefferson City reducing the proposed annual revenue hike by nearly $68,000 to $96,972.

The company last June applied for an increase of $164,241 which the commission said Monday would have given Missouri Utilities an unreasonably high rate of return on the fair value of its property.

Missouri Utilities' proposed increase would have meant a 6 per cent raise to its customers. Looking at the reduction in annual revenue made by the PSC, it appears the increase to customers might now be about 3½ per cent.

However, the PSC office said it is up to the company to determine the percentage of increase it can make to the customer and stay within the revenue framework outlined by the state body.

The PSC said on a fair value rate base of $5,515,539, the company will earn 6.30 per cent under the new rates compared to a rate of return of 5.40 per cent on present rates.

On net original cost, the company's rate of return will be 7.37 per cent on a base of $4.623.022 compared to a current rate of return of 6.33 per cent.

The company's total revenues after the new rates become effective will be $2,916,712. President annual revenues are $2,819,740, the PSC said. Operating expenses under the new rates will be $2,569,216. Now they are $2,521,326. Net operating income will be $347,496 as a result of the increase. The present net is $298,414, the PSC ruled.

The order will become effective 10 days from issuance — or May 13. Before that date, the company is expected to file the required new tariffs that will bring in revenues within the framework so that the increase can be made to customers on the effective date, the PSC said.

The City of Cape Girardeau opposed the rate increase and participated in cross-examinations in December and oral arguments in February, both held before the PSC. The commission had the testimony under advisement since February.

City Attorney Howard C. Wright Jr. said he has not yet had a chance to study Monday's order.

Dexter and Illmo also intervened in the case.

System for Disruptive Juveniles Called Folly

BOONVILLE, Mo. (AP) — It would be "downright folly" to establish a special system to handle juveniles with behavorial problems, says Walter S. DeClue, superintendent of the Missouri Training School for Boys.

DeClue made the comment Monday about a bill to create such a system that was introduced by Rep. Stephen Burns, R-Des Peres, in the Missouri House.

Burns' proposal calls for a special statewide school district for youths deemed a disruptive influence but not bad enough to be sent to the Boonville institution.

There is a crisis, DeClue said, but Burns' plan is not the answer because educational systems in the state have proven themselves failures. He added if only youths who have committed serious crimes are sent to Boonville, they would pose a serious threat to the staff of the institution and the community.

DeClue said he has repeatedly suggested the state Department of Education and the University of Missouri use Boonville school for "researching educational techniques."

Aid Ready For Storm Victims

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Federal disaster loan assistance will be available this week for victims of the May 5 tornadoes in Linn and Chariton counties in north central Missouri.

The regional director of the Small Business Administration, C. I. Moyer, said the action came after the area eligible for disaster loans had been designated by federal authorities in Washington.

Disaster victims in both Marceline and Rothville may make application though an office established in the city hall at Marceline.

Moyer said any individual, corporation or partnership that suffered a real or personal property loss is eligible to file application for a disaster loan. Rural damage loans are handled through the FHA.
